R. R. Strike Decision Near

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP)—The White House announced at 3 p. m., just two hours before a strike deadline, "every effort is being made to settle the rail labor dispute." Charles G. Ross, presidential press secretary, gave reporters this picture of the situation at that hour:

"I have very little to report. Mr. Whitney and Mr. Johnston (heads of the Trainmen and Engineer Brotherhoods) are here. They have not yet seen the President.

"The operators, headed by Mr. Pelley and his group, are also here. They came in at the invitation of Mr. Steelman. They have not seen the President.

"The President went to lunch at his usual hour of 2 o'clock and has just returned to his office. Every effort is being made to settle the rail labor dispute."

Ross' statement that the Brotherhood leaders had not yet seen the President meant that they had not delivered a personal answer to the President's settlement offer of yesterday.

This offer, calling for an 18½-cent hourly wage increase and abandonment for the time being of the unions' 25 demands for changes in working rules, was called "unfavorable" by the Brotherhood men last night.

John J. Pelley, president of the Association of American Railroads, headed the carrier delegation, Alvanley Johnston of the engineers, and A. F. Whitney of the trainmen, told reporters:

"We'll have a statement after we see the President."

Previously the White House had sent Labor Adviser John R. Steelman to crucial conferences with labor and management representatives in an urgent effort to head off the strike.

"I can't tell you anything now," Steelman told reporters as he left a hotel after meeting with leaders of the trainmen and engineer brotherhoods and headed for talks with operator representatives.

President Truman had fixed a 1 p. m. deadline for the brotherhoods to report their decision, involving 250,000 trainmen and engineers.

Steelman declined to say whether he might have injected a higher wage increase figure than the 18½ cents an hour boost Mr. Truman suggested last night as a compromise.

In New York, Thomas J. Harkins, eastern representative for the engineers, said he had "no hope" that the walkout on the government-seized lines would be called off. He added:

"I hope I'm wrong."

Before entering the Mayflower Hotel suite of Whitney and Johnston, Steelman tald reporters:

"I came to have a final talk with the gentlemen before they see the President."

Steelman was asked whether he carried any new proposal to the two brotherhoods bettering the 18½-cent hourly boost offered by Mr. Truman yesterday. He declined to comment on this and refused to answer any other questions.

A general embargo on railroad freight was readied meanwhile by the Office of Defense Transportation for prompt use if necessary.

The ODT oficial, who asked not to be identified by name, told a reporter:

"The (freight) embargo will be ordered within a few minutes after the men strike, if they strike, to insure the movement of essential supplies by as many trains as may be running."

He also said ODT would set up a list of commodities to which other freight carriers must give preference. These orders will affect water and motor freight carriers.

BULLETINS

WASHINGTON, May 23 (INS)—The Southern railroad heldup all passenger trains which would have left between 2 and 5 p. m. (E. D. T.).

NEW YORK, May 23 (INS)—Office workers in the New York Central railroad systems executive offices were dismissed at 3 p. m. today so they could reach their homes before the strike deadline.

Tobin Signs Fair Practices Act; Law in 90 Days

Governor Tobin today signed the fair practices act, making Massachusetts the second State in the nation to pass legislation outlawing discrimination in employment because of race, creed or color. New York has a similar law.

Present at the signing were three members of the Governor's committee appointed last fall to study and suggest remedyal legislation. They were former Mayor Frederick W. Mansfield, Henry R. Silberman of Cambridge and Edward Dixon of Boston.

The law, which becomes operative in 90 days, establishes an anti-discrimination commission with power to investigate complaints and to require compliance with the law.

Brewster's Pearl Plea Voted Down

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP)—The Pearl Harbor committee today rejected, 3 to 1, a demand by Sen. Brewster (R.) of Maine that it look into State Dept. files he contended might contain information on 1200 to 1500 pre-war messages exchanged by President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill.

The committee thus closed the 8,500,000 word record it began compiling last Nov. 15 on the Pearl Harbor attack.

Deadlier Than Atom Bomb

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP)—Rep. Albert Thomas (D.) of Texas told the House today that the U. S. Navy has developed a weapon "far more deadly than the atomic bomb."

Thomas did not say what the weapon was nor would he elaborate to reporters other than to indicate it was a development of the Bureau of Medicine and Surgery. His statement to the House:

"We have something far more deadly than the atomic bomb today—not tomorrow, and furthermore it's in usable shape."

Coal Mine Pay Stumps Parley

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP)—With more than a third of the soft coal miners idle despite government seizure of the mines, a White House conference sought today to work out a wage contract acceptable to both John L. Lewis and the operators. Among the conferees at the early morning meeting were Interior Secretary Krug, federal mine boss; Labor Secretary Schwellenbach; Dr. John R. Steelman, President Truman's labor advisor, and Reconversion Director Snyder. Vice-Admiral Ben Morell, Krug's operator of the mines, also jointed the talks.

Assistant Press Secretary Eben Ayers told reporters of the meeting, but did not say what steps had been taken toward drafting a settlement.

The best Krug could offer was a guarded hope the end of the current two-week truce Saturday would not plunge all the pits back into idleness. The first 24 hours of government seizure produced discouraging results from the Administration point of view. Thousands of miners, who had gone back to work under the truce, quit their pits.

This mass return to idleness closed down an additional 243 mines, increasing the number immobilized by the bituminous dispute to more than 2100 of the 4500 total. Latest federal estimates are that more than a third of the 400,000 soft coal miners are now staying away from work.

DAR's Cheer, Hiss as Negro Ban Prevails

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., May 23 (AP)—The Daughters of the American Revolution clapped hands and cheered today when Mrs. E. C. Denny Vann of Leonia, N. J., announced withdrawal of a resolution calling for deletion of a "white artists only" clause in Constitution Hall rental contracts.

Hundreds of the 2000 delegates to the DAR's 55th Continental Congress hissed Mrs. Vann when she rose.

The delegates by voice vote refused at first to allow Mrs. Vann to speak on the resolution which was reported out as unfavorable by the 74-woman resolutions committee.

Hub Workers Leave For Homes Early

Boston workers began an early trek homeward today while awaiting word from Washington on the outcome of the White House conference on the threatened railroad strike set for 5 p. m.

All State employes who use trains were dismissed at 3 p. m., on order of Gov. Tobin, and the State House and other State offices operated with skeleton staffs. Some stores and business establishments followed the same policy and allowed many workers to leave early.

Despite this early departure of many commuters, the situation at North and South Stations was reported normal late this afternoon. Covic and business leaders, meanwhile, scheduled conferences to determine long range policies on food, fuel, working hours and transportation problems in the event of a walkout.

The New Yorker, 2 p. m., Shore Line train for New York, left on schedule but all passengers were warned over South Station loud speakers and by signs over the train gate that "if the strike occurs this rain will terminate at New Haven."

A contingent of Navy men, bound for the Philadelphia Navy Yard and discharge, were ordered instead to the Fargo Barracks to receive their discharges there.

Trainmen's locker rooms at South Station were crowded with employes waiting for final word on the strike. There was no disorder.

The New Haven railroad emphasized that, in the event the strike is not settled or postponed, no train of their line will leave South Station after 5 p. m.

Normal service will continue if the strike is avoided, but railroad men pointed to the three-hour delay and confusion at Boston terminals last Saturday night before word of the last minute truce of five days reached here. Until official word from labor chiefs reached local union heads, no train was permitted to move Saturday.

Commuters using North Station were assured "a considerable number of trains" would be operated after the 5 p. m. deadline, and the last train would go out at 11:50 tonight. These will be operated by crews who start work before the strike begins and would then be returning trains to their home terminals.

1st Hub Trawler Sails Tonight

The 146-day tieup of the Boston trawler fleet ended this afternoon following a four-hour conference of fishing boat owners held on Boston Fish Pier. Patrick J. McHugh, whose fishermen yesterday ratified a contract that took more than four weeks to negotiate, said a crew would be made up for at least one trawler that would permit its sailing this evening.

Doctor Is Held In Knifing of Waban Friend

Accused of assault with a knife on his wealthy and intimate friend, William W. Rich, during a midnight snack at Rich's sumptuous home in the fashionable section of Newton, Dr. Franz R. Stenzel, 45, of Newton, was held for the grand jury in bonds of $2500 today in Newton District Court. The physician surrendered in court and was arraigned before Judge Mayberry. Through his counsel, Atty. James F. Harrington, Dr. Stenzel pleaded not guilty, waived reading of the complaint and examination, and agreed to post bond. Judge Mayberry found probable cause to hold him for the Middlesex County grand jury which convenes June 3.

Neither Rich, 45-year-old head of an insulation firm, nor his counsel, Atty. John Lyons, was present in court. The victim, who allegedly suffered a slashed hand, and leg, back and shoulder injuries, said at his home he did not wish to discuss the matter.

"This is a different and difficult case," Rich said. "We are not roughnecks in this section."

Police charged teh alleged assault occurred last Friday and said a complaint was issued by Judge Mayberry at a preliminary hearing. Newton Sgt. Thomas H. McCormick was listed as the complaining officer.

According to police, Dr. Stenzel was one of several visitors at the Rich home that night. After the others left, they said Rich, who was a patient of the physician, Mrs. Rich, and the doctor, were having a midnight lunch when the two men engaged in an argument during the discussion of a mutual friend.

Dr. Stenzel grabbed a carving knife, police allege, and attempted to slash Rich. The host, who suffers from a heart ailment, received a hand wound when he made a grab for the knife.

A scuffle followed, according to the police report, and continued out into Beacon st., in front of the Rich home. It was in this melee that Rich suffered bodily injuries, police added.

At his home today, Rich said he was feeling "better," but said that because of his heart condition he was "highly excitable."

Vanderbilt Denies Knowing of Plot

NEW YORK, May 23 (INS)—Alfred G. Vanderbilt, heir to a $20,000,000 share in the Vanderbilt railroad fortune, said today he was not aware of any "plot" to kidnap him. He denied he had a special police guard.

A report that gangsters were prepared to "snatch" Vanderbilt, owner of the famous Sagamore Farms racing stable, was said to have been given police by a former convict.

Hundred Hike From Airport As Taxis Stage Driveaway

More than 100 airline passengers were left stranded at the airport in East Boston today when taxi drivers staged a simultaneous demonstration, a protest which they said was aimed at operators of Sutcliffe company limousines.

Ten additional state troopers were dispatched to the aid of two officers on duty at the airport when 40 cabs, lined up in front of the administration building, were driven away without passengers.

Taxi drivers told State Police they have obeyed the regulation which requires drivers to remain seated within their vehicles and wait for a summons from a fare. However, they charged that the drivers of Sutcliffe Airport Transportation Co. limousines have been openly soliciting business.

It was not until Edward Gagne of Canterbury st., Roslindale, a starter for the City of Boston Cab Ass'n, appealed to the drivers by telephone that they returned and resumed service. He acted at the request of representatives of American and Northeast airlines whose customers were left stranded.

War Hero Killed, 10 Hurt In 3-Car Nahant Crash

William Sears, Jr., 24, Purple Heart hero of Bastogne of Hamilton st., Lynn, was killed and 10 others, including the son of Police Chief Francis Wall of Swampscott, were injured today in a triple auto crash on Lynn Beach rd., Nahant, one of the worst highway accidents in North Shore history. Police said the tragedy occurred when the Sears car was struck head on by one of two racing machines, swung completely around by the impact and then was smashed again by the second speeding auto.

Police obtained warrants in Nahant district court against the drivers of the two cars, Joseph Morrow, 21, Humphrey st., Swampscott, and Frank "Sonny" Homan, 20, of Ocean View rd., Swampscott.

The warrants charged each with operating to endanger, recklessness, racing on the highway and speeding. Homan is in Lynn Hospital in critical condition with a fractured right leg and multiple lacerations. Morrow was released after treatment for minor injuries.

John Chadwick

Names of seven others are on the danger list at the hospital, with Francis Wall, Jr., 20, son of the Swampscott chief, who has fractures of the skull and nose, and Miss Susan George, 18, of Burchstead pl., Lynn, who has possible fractures of the skull and spine, in the most serious condition.

Others at the hospital are:

Roger Williams, 20, Sargent st., Swampscott, concussion and multiple abrasions.

Chester Williams, 21, his brother, concussion.

William Roher, 21, Littles Point, Swampscott, fractured skull and left leg.

John Chadwick, 30, Glenwood st., Lynn, brother-in-law of Sears, concussion and lacerations.

Theresa DeMeulle, 22, Baldwin st., Lynn, concussion and lacerations.

In addition to Morrow, Richard Wade, 21, Aspen rd., Swampscott, and Robert Shields, 21, Salem st., Swampscott, were released after treatment for minor injuries.

Sears died at Lynn Hospital without regaining consciousness two hours after the crash. The son of Mr. and Mrs. William Sears, he is survived by his widow, the former Gladys Howard, and a 16-months-old daughter.

He was discharged from the Army last October after more than three years of service, during which he was wounded at Bastogne.

He and Chadwick, his brother-in-law, had been employed as chefs at a Lynnfield clam shop.

All the Swampscott boys, riding in cars which police reported were driven by Morrow and Homan, were returning home from a Nahant dance when, according to authorities, they began a race along the causeway toward Lynn.

Patrolmen Albert Badger and Joseph Flynn, Nahant cruiser officers, reported they took up pursuit in a chase which exceeded 60 miles an hour despite the warning of the police siren.

They were vainly signaling the racers to stop, the officers said, when Homan's car plowed into the Sears auto, with Morrow's machine, close behind, unable to avoid the two smashed cars.

All eight Swampscott youths are war veterans.

Police said the two injured girls, Miss George and Miss De Meulle, were being escorted by Sears and Chadwick to a Nahant restaurant at the time of the crash.

2nd N. E. Baby On Bride Ship Near Death

Disclosure that a second New England baby is near death in New York, victim of the mystery illness aboard the Army bride ship Zebulon Vance, came today amid fresh charges that filthy conditions, poor food and indifference of medical personnel caused the outbreak which killed five babies and affected 20 others.

Critically ill in a New York hospital is Anthony Aliberti, two-months-old son of John Aliberti, teacher at Stearns High School, Millinocket, Me., and his Belgian bride, Josee.

Funeral services for one of the five victims, Frances Kotcis, daughter of John J. Kotcis, Waverly st., Brighton, Army veteran, were held today at the Kotcis home with burial in St. Joseph's Cemetery, West Roxbury.

Both Mrs. Aliberti and Mrs. Lucie Kotcis, 21, also a Belgian bride, were bitter in their denunciation of conditions aboard the ship.

Mrs. Aliberti said cabins aboard the Zebulon Vance were so crowded that "in the cabin in which I came over there were 18 women and 10 babies."

"My baby is skin and bones, like the victims of the horror camps at Dachau," her husband, a former staff sergeant, of Deer st., Portland, Me., declared. His wife added that the baby was healthy when he boarded ship but received no medical attention during the 13-day voyage from Le Havre to New York.

Mrs. Kotcis told how mothers of ailing babies were forced to clean the ill-equipped washrooms aboard the Vance.

Doctors refused to take complaints seriously, she charged, until sickness mounted among children at an alarming rate. When the ship docked, three of the babies were dead and at least 20 were ill of what Army authorities termed a "strange malady."

The Kotcis child was the fourth to die, and her death was followed by that of 9-week-old Robert Ball, son of John Ball, veteran and owner of a taxicab concern in Paris, Ill., where he had taken his dying baby.

Meanwhile, in Pittsburgh, the death of a 5-months-old girl, who arrived in this country Sunday aboard the SS Brazil, was reported by health authorities. The child was Vivian Smith. Her mother, Mrs. Hilda Smith, collapsed from worry and was hospitalized. The father, Howard Smith, lives in Burbank, Cal.

Dr. C. A. McLelland, the Ball family physician, gave malnutrition as official cause of the baby's death and reported the child was "dehydrated and malnourished" when he examined him. Ball said the child was in good health when the vessel left Le Havre.

Pilot Dies in Flames On Flight Over Home

A 22-year-old former Navy ensign from Wilmington, making his first flight as a Naval reservist since his discharge last December, crashed to his death today when his Hellcat fighter burst into flames while he was stunting high above his home town.

From papers found on the pilot's burned and mangled body Police Chief Harry D. Ainsworth identified the victim as Philip J. Pilcher, 22, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen J. Pilcher, of Brand ave.

Two brothers, one serving in the Navy in the Pacific and four sisters also survive.

The youth went to Squantum Naval air station today to make his first flight as a Naval reservist since his discharge last Dec. 10.

The doomed plane, trailing a plume of smoke and flames, plummeted to the ground, smashing into a wooded section between Billington ave. and Cedar st., slashing through trees and brush until the remains of the wreckage slowed to a halt a scant 20 yards from the rear of the home of Miss Jean Gallagher in Cedar st.

A trail of burning wreckage set fire to brush.

Chief Ainsworth said he and other officers were standing in front of the station in Wilmington sq. a few minutes after noon when two Navy Hellcat fighter planes appeared high above the town. As they had for the past few days, he said, the planes began a series of stunts and maneuvers, when one burst into flames.

Car Prices May Go Still Higher

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP)—OPA, slapping four to eight per cent price hikes on top of previous increases for new automobiles, kept the door open today for a possible further boost. At the same time chances virtually disappeared for any OPA-ordered cut in ceiling prices when the industry achieves full scale production. A high OPA official said the agency "does not plan to try to reduce prices" after cars begin to roll from assembly lines at the prewar rate. Manufacturing costs usually decline as production goes up.

The increases announced yesterday range from $33 to $167, averaging about $75 for 16 makes of cars built by Chrysler, Ford, General Motors, Hudson, Nash, Packard and Studebaker.

Admitted Hiding Barresi Suspect

Police witnesses at the Suffolk Superior Court trial of Joseph Troila, 22, Dorchester, and Gerald Coyne, 30, Roxbury, charged with the attempted murder of Joseph Barresi, 35-year-old ex-boxer, in an East Boston cafe shooting last September, testified today Mrs. Elaine Bendeky admitted hiding Troila in her apartment for four days.

Mrs. Bendeky and Guy G. Rindini, 28, Roxbury, also are on trial as accessories after the fact of attempted murder.

Special Officer Timothy P. Sullivan testified Lt. James V. Crowley asked Mrs. Bendeky if she had known Troila was wanted for shooting Barresi, and he quoted her as replying:

"No, I didn't. But I know Barresi because I worked as a waitress in that canteen and I'd like to shake the hand of the man that did it."

Texarkana 'Killer' Identifies Self in Sealed Note to Press

LOS ANGELES, May 23 (INS)—A man who identified himself in a sealed note to the Los Angeles Examiner as Ralph B. Baumann, 21-year-old discharged Army Air Forces gunner, was held today in the multiple slayings which have terrorized Texarkana, Tex. The Examiner said Baumann appeared in the offices of the newspaper and said to a reporter:

"I want to sell you some murder information. I know who and where the Texarkana killer is. Give me $5 and let me have an hour's start and I'll put the information in a sealed envelope."

The reporter, Richard Hathcock, took him to the city editor and then left the building. Shortly afterward, the Examiner said, Hathcock was seated in a restaurant when Baumann entered a near-by shooting gallery. Hathcock telephoned his office and was informed Baumann's note read:

"On a certain day in March I was in a Texarkana theater watching a Pathe news picture of war. When a party of persons acted wise and said 'overacting,' it kind of got me. I followed them home. I killed them within a period of three days."

Baumann was arrested while he still held the rifle which he had been using in the shooting gallery.

The Examiner quoted Baumann as declaring:

"I came out here to work. I thought I'd killed enough people. Besides, I don't get those spells any more."

The original note stated Baumann was discharged from the Air Force May 26, 1944, "by reason of neuro-psychiatric, psychoneurosis."

No identification was found on the youth, who said:

"I don't need any identification. This is a free country and I fought to make it that way. I'm not carrying any identification from now on."

The note given to the Examiner carried a postscript on the reverse side, which read:

"It was me. Did you get a good look? That's how I know where he is."

The Examiner quoted Baumann as evading direct answers, saying:

"I was in a daze from March 23 to May 3."

'Greater Boston' To Solve Housing

All communities within a 25-mile radius of Boston should be incorporated under a metropolitan government setup if Massachusetts hopes to solve its housing problem.

This was the keynote of the address today of Catherine Bauer, vice-president of the National Public Housing Conference, at the opening of the two-day convention of the National Ass'n of Regional Housing Officials at the Hotel Commander in Cambridge.

She said:

"Under the present setup each city and town has a housing problem and housing projects which it doesn't want to lose. As a result, we are working on a competitive basis rather than a cooperative one.

"Boston, for instance, fears losing residents because that would mean a loss in taxes. Actually, the city can save itself only by losing population. There would be more green space, more playgrounds and a better environment if it were less crowded. This can be achieved only by a metropolitan instead of a municipal government."

Catholic Press Told Orient Vital

The Catholic press faces an important task in keeping its readers informed about the Far East which is fast becoming a vital factor in world affairs, Archbishop Cushing told 135 delegates opening National Catholic Press Ass'n convention here today.

The archbishop spoke briefly after celebrating a pontifical low mass at St. Clement's Shrine, Back Bay, to open the three-day sessions. Archbishop John Gregory Murray of St. Paul, Minn., episcopal chairman of the convention, attended the mass.

James S. Mitchell, executive director of the National Catholic Community Service, USO, and Simon Baldus, veteran Catholic editor, were scheduled featured speakers at the luncheon meeting at the Copley Plaza Hotel.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
Copyright, 1946, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

THE PRESIDENT seems to be a leisurely gentleman who takes his time about things.

He waited 40 days to become cognizant of John L. Lewis' coal strike. He took at least a month to acknowledge the perils of the railroad strike.

A maritime strike has been announced for the middle of June by Harry Bridges and Joe Curran. I wonder if Mr. Truman has heard about it yet?

Mr. Truman is one for taking advice from carefully selected advisers. For instance, his economists advised him that following V-J Day this country would suffer from deflation, that some 8,000,000 would be out of work and that prices would collapse.

Why Mr. Truman should have accepted the advice of these great minds whose opinions ran counter to all knowledge, wisdom and human experience, is beyond understanding. But he did.

A formula was worked out by these pedants to raise wages without increasing prices on the supposition that industry could operate for six months at a loss.

EVERY IDEA in this formula turned out to be wrong. Instead of deflation, came inflation. Instead of prices falling, they rose. Instead of wages rising without prices rising, came a series of government-inspired and fomented strikes which threw this country into a spiral inflation, the end of which is not yet on the horizon.

Every advice given the President by Chester Bowles, Henry Wallace, Leon Henderson, Robert Nathan and the rest of the smart products of bookworm wisdom worked exactly in reverse.

Now, on the matter of the coal strike, his wisdom came, according to reports, from Dr. John R. Steelman and George Allen.

The theory was to let John L. Lewis and the coal operators "sweat it out."

John L. Lewis is a good sweater. And the operators have nothing to lose but their mines. So they can sweat.

Actually the "sweating out" was by the American people. Every business, every home, every individual is affected. The President himself had to sit in a brown-out.

YET, FOR some reason the President sat around and waited while the advisers advised. No issue arose in the coal strike after the 40th day which was not on the cards all the time. The welfare fund was first projected by David Dubinsky and was picked up by James Caesar Petrillo.

Obviously, if they got away with it, every labor leader will try to get away with it. Should Lewis get a welfare fund, every union will try to get one. WHY NOT?

The function of officialdom is to know what is happening in the country and to anticipate trouble. So far as the American people are concerned, it is the President and not his advisers who are responsible for whatever occurs. He can, if he chooses, advise with Popeye or Superman—and I fear some of his advisers are of that ilk. But when a President sits around for 40 days, sweating it out, while the productivity of his country is tobogganing, he cannot be regarded as a serious-minded person who knows what he is doing.

IT IS IMPOSSIBLE for the economy of this country to mark time until after the 1946 Congressional elections. Mr. Truman apparently prefers not to make decisions that endanger his majority in Congress.

Mr. Hannegan would prefer him not to antagonize the CIO and the PAC.

Mr. Allen and Mr. Snyder want him to hold business and the farmers in line.

Mr. Bowles wants to be elected Governor of Connecticut.

Paul Porter wants to go back to the FCC where he can continue his program of limiting freedom of the radio. Everybody wants something and gives advice.

But the American people also want something and they want it now.

NOW and not in November. NOW and not after election day.

Mr. Truman has to make up his mind whether he is managing a congressional election or whether he is President of the United States.

It may be a difficult decision to make; yet he cannot avoid making it and hold his job.

The course of events brooks no delay—and he cannot change that course by gazing at the heavens through Henry Wallace's astrological devices. It is a time to swim or sink.

Benjamin Lister, Racing Stable Owner, Suicide

PROVIDENCE, May 23—Benjamin F. Lister, 61, retired manufacturer and one of New England's best known horsemen, today was listed a suicide in the second tragedy of the spring meeting at Narragansett race track. His body, throat slashed with a razor, was found beside his automobile in the woods surrounding the Metacomet Golf Club.

His death came a month to the day after the unsolved slaying of John F. Letendre, sportsman and Narragansett director, who was shot to death near his home in Woonsocket.

Lister, an Iowa-born farm boy, was a pioneer in New England racing and had enjoyed unusual success. For many years he was president and treasurer of the Colored Worsted Mills here but six months ago retired to give full time to racing interests.

The family of the victim said he had been in ill health for some time and was worried over a heart condition.

Lister became interested in horses soon after racing came to New England's three tracks and had steeds campaigning successfully when New England-owned horses were a rarity here.

He had two strings campaigning at the present Narragansett meeting and another at New York. His Two Ten was a winner a few days ago, paying $145.40, the biggest mutuel of the New England season. His Eternity won last week at New York and another of his horses, Last Tower, ran second at Belmont Tuesday.

Lister was a breeder of horses as well, owning Bull Brier and Clock Tower. Among his better horses at Narragansett are Atomic Wave, a two-year-old, Two Ten, Mill Dam, Forty Eight, Boxie and Sweet Sweet.

He leaves his wife and four sons, one of them James E. Lister, who trains one of the Lister strings, and two daughters, Mrs. Muriel O'Connell and Mrs. Amelia Mahoney, both of Providence.

By unrelated coincidence, Lister's suicide came just as Woonsocket police appeared on the verge of getting their first big break in the Woonsocket killing of Letendre.

FBI experts in Washington seek to link a .38 caliber Colt Special with the slaying. The gun, issued originally to the Woonsocket police department, was found along with a .45 caliber gun under a bridge three miles from where Letendre was killed. Three shots had been fired from the .38 weapon, the same number of bullets fired in the April 23 killing. Two struck Letendre in the head and a third lodged in a nearby building.

ALBANY, N. Y., May 23 (AP)—A paper bag containing $10,975 has been found among the groceries left in a kitchen cabinet when the cabinet was stored in a warehouse weeks ago, court proceeding revealed today.

The money apparently belongs to Mrs. Sarah A. Fitzgerald, former waitress who has been declared incompetent. She is more than 70 years old.

Granara Defaults, Warrant Out in Nomination Fraud Case

J. Ralph Granara, city registrar of graves, defaulted in Municipal Court today when his case was called on charges of conspiracy and filing a false nomination paper and Judge Carr issued a bench warrant for his arrest. Three other defendants, Joseph A. Langone, 3rd, 30, Haverhill st., son of Election Comr. Joseph A. Langone, Jr.; Joseph L. Statuto, 30, Thatcher st., and Paul E. Riley, 33, Cooper st., all charged with conspiracy, were present and their cases were continued to June 3 in the same bail of $1000 each at the request of Atty.-Gen. Barnes.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Ernest Brenner said Barnes was anxious to proceed as quickly as possible in order to prevent intimidation of witnesses.

Atty. Thomas Collins, counsel for the defendants, requested a 30-day continuance, declaring they should have the same opportunity as the attorney general to question witnesses and that he planned to contact at least 50 to 100 persons in the case.

"I'm not going to listen to any 50 or 100 witnesses," Judge Carr interrupted. "All I'm supposed to do is find out whether or not there is probable cause."

Collins then said there was a political angle in the case and he would prefer it to be heard after the primary election but Judge Carr set the date for June 3.

Two more arrests were believed imminent, as Judge Elijah Adlow issued additional warrants for John Doe and Richard Roe, whose identities Barnes refused to divulge.

All six warrants were sworn out after Barnes and a parade of witnesses presented evidence to the judge, in a secret inquest, concerning recent alleged nomination irregularities.

Among the witnesses heard were Thomas McDonough of Rosetta st., Dorchester, who withdrew from the 4th Councilor District race after claiming to have been kidnaped and threatened by strangers, and George T. Gillen, 40, of Soley st. Charlestown, victim of an alleged slugging in the North End.

In addition to the conspiracy charge, Granara was accused of filing false nomination papers.

Skopp Guilty in Wineshop Killing

BULLETIN

Skopp was found guilty of first degree murder after one hour of jury deliberation.

The government's case against Raphael Skopp, 36, of Brooklyn, charged with the murder of Bronislaw Petrusevicz in a Federal st. liquor store holdup, was completed today and the defense rested immediately, with Atty. Richard McCabe starting a unique final argument in Suffolk Superior Court.

"It would be inconceivable for any lawyer, in the face of this evidence, to ask you to return a verdict of not guilty," McCabe said. "This is the most beautifully prepared case and the most ably prosecuted to which I ever have listened.

"I believe there are only two verdicts, first or second degree murder, on the evidence. I ask you to return a second degree verdict."

Bus Hits Boy, Crashes on Lawn

Thirty Boston Elevated bus passengers were shaken up and several women among them fainted today when the bus swerved across River st., Mattapan, crashed through a hedge and ended up on a lawn as the driver made a futile attempt to avoid striking Charles Clougherty, Jr., 8, of Huntington ave., Hyde Park.

The youngster, suffering head injuries, was taken to City Hospital. Several women passengers were treated at the scene by Dr. Stanley Cobb of Adams st., Jamaica Plain.

The bus, bound from Cleary sq., to Mattapan sq., was operated by Frederick M. Hilden, of Childs st., Jamaica Plain. The injured boy is the son of Fire Dept. Lt. Clougherty, who was seriously injured in a fire engine and auto crash seven weeks ago.

'I Did It,' Cries Peep Hole Killer Of Manicurist

LIVERPOOL, Eng., May 23 (AP) — Police today charged Thomas Hendren, slender 31-year-old ship's baker, with the "Peep Hole" slaying of Ella Staunton, red-haired manicurist and former dance contest winner.

Arraigned in magistrate's court, Hendren said: "I did it, I did it. I will say nothing."

He was dapperly dressed in a double-breasted brown coat and grey flannel trousers.

Police said the baker, found sleeping in a park, had been sought since Monday, when the stabbed and strangled body of attractive Mrs. Staunton, 30, was found in the manicure salon she operated here.

Two detectives, sent to investigate the use being made of the premises, were peering through a peep hole in the ceiling when the woman was slain. They said after a male client and Mrs. Staunton moved momentarily out of range of the peep hole they heard a scream and rushed downstairs to find the woman dead and the man gone.

Both men were found guilty by a jury weeks ago on charges of conspiracy to defraud investors and using the mails to defraud. Sentence was postponed while Goldberg underwent an operation.

Walsh Called Presumptuous

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP)—Democratic whips of both the House and Senate said today it was presumptuous of the two naval committee chairmen to advise Navy Sec. Forrestal against a merger compromise.

Sen. Hill and Rep. Sparkman, the party deputies from Alabama, declared that in effect Sen. David I. Walsh and Rep. Vinson (D.) of Georgia were telling Forrestal to disregard President Truman's views on Army-Navy unification.

And they added to a reporter that the two chairmen were presumptuous, too, in their assertion that Congress will pass no merger bill.

Both Hill and Sparkman expressed emphatic belief that unification legislation will be enacted this year. They are members of the military committees of their respective chambers.

Metascope Takes Henlow

WASHINGTON, May 23 (INS)—The War Department disclosed today the tiniest magical hero of the war and said it with hastening victory in Europe.

This instrument—the metascope—is the little sister to the snooperscope and sniperscope, already cited for gallantry in action against Germany and Japan. It was designed in nearly part of 1945.

By looking through the metascope, small enough to fit into a watch pocket, a passenger could detect light beam from the ground or infra-red radiation which signaled him here to land.

WHAT CAN'T BE CURED MUST BE ENDURED

..We wish we could do something about the 30% grain cut BUT..we can't change a Government Ruling..we can't change a situation which means 30% less Beer and Ale.

Here are the plain facts from WALTER E. GUYETTE
President of HARVARD BREWING CO.

Brewers of HARVARD BEER & ALE

During the past two months, our company has been faced with the toughest problem in our history. We have always recognized our responsibility in taking care of our customers and helping them safeguard their licenses.

Now with the 30% cut in grain we are forced to cut our production, in short we can only brew as much ale and beer as we are allowed by the restrictive order . . . and that means 30% less beer and ale . . . there is no other way of figuring it. Moreover, there is no alternative to the Government order, we must accept this ruling.

We can make one promise . . . the distribution of the available supply of ale and beer will be equally distributed on the basis of past sales to our customers. We do not know how long this crisis will last, it may be 3 months, 4 months, or 6 months, a year or longer, but, however long it may be, there is not a thing we can do about it to produce more ale and beer. All we can do is make the best of a tough situation and ask for your understanding and co-operation. But we promise that we will continue to produce the same quality that has made the name Harvard accepted by dealers and the consuming public, so that "always in the future, as in the past, the claim Harvard Has What It Takes" will live as long as ale and beer can be made.

Dr. Cushman Off on Africa Mission at 76

Dr. Mary Floyd Cushman, famed 76-year-old missionary doctor of Needham, was aboard the Pan-American World Airways Congo Clipper today bound once again for Angola in Portuguese West Africa.

"Yes, I'm going back to Africa to work until I die. And I'm happy," the tiny old lady said as she shook

This is her third visit to Africa. She was 53 years old the first time she went there. Until then, the entire life of this daughter of a Maine minister had been devoted to preparation for medical missionary work. A career as a missionary had been her goal even after she completed medical school at Boston University and while she worked as a country doctor, a hospital surgeon and as head of a hospital.

On her first arrival in Ochilesso, West Africa, in 1932, Dr. Cushman had performed a Cesarean operation before her luggage was unpacked. For the next 20 years she was too busy, she wrote friends, to take a vacation, and she returned to the United States only once for a furlough.

Area Size of Australia Affected by Atomic Bomb

NEW YORK, May 23 (AP)—The Times says research by the Eastman Kodak Co. has revealed radioactive effects of atomic bomb explosions spread in the course of a few days over an area about the size of Australia.

The findings were based on months of investigation into the source of radioactivity detected last fall in straw board stiffeners used between photographic films.

A routine test of strawboard in the fall of 1945 showed material made three to eight weeks after the bomb blast in New Mexico disclosed radioactivity sufficient to fog film. The two plants making the strawboard were in the Middle West, 400 to 500 miles apart.

It was concluded radioactive particles from the New Mexico explosion probably were spread by stratospheric winds and precipitated into the Middle West by rain.

The two plants making strawboard are supplied by different watersheds, but sediment taken from the river water used in both plants showed contamination, while the straw, fresh from the fields, did not.

Atomic scientists assert one bomb apparently doubles radioactivity over a wide area. Scientists of the International Protection Commission have said radiations equal to about 10,000 times those of normal air are the maximum daily safe load for the human body.

HAY FEVER CAN BE RELIEVED
WITH SUPER OXYGEN AND NEGATIVE IONS

Hay fever sufferers taking this treatment have, with few exceptions, gone for years without recurring symptoms.

Proof!

For more than 300 hay fever patients, one season's treatments brought relief (lasting in some instances as long as ten years) to all but 18. Even those severe cases requiring additional treatments during a second season, experienced complete relief from hay fever symptoms during the first year.

The Treatment

Super Oxygen and Negative Ions oxygenate the blood stream and eliminate the acid (histamin) which is claimed to be the cause of hay fever. Treatments are moderately priced, pleasantly relaxing, and given under a doctor's direction.

OPEN CLOSED HOUSES

MAYOR O'DWYER of New York has stated that he ill not hesitate to take closed buildins away from their owners in condemnatin proceedings to push the city's program br remodelling tenements to house ten thousand families.

We hope Mr. O'lwyer will stay away from Greater Boston–at least for the duration of the housing exergency.

There is too mud here to disturb and disillusion him.

We are cluttered with boarded-up mansions which stand ou like monuments in a cemetery and are no nore useful.

They are scatterel throughout the Back Bay.

They are numerous and conspicuous in Brookline, Newton and other metropolitan communities.

Instead of shedding crocodile tears over the plight of the homeless veterans and their families, Mayors and Selectmen should contact the owners of these abandoned structures at once and say:

"If you do not want to rent the home you are not using, LEND IT until this crisis ends."

Condemnation proceedings may not be necessary.

A word from a person in authority will probably be sufficient in most cases.

AT CROSSROADS

WHEN THE New Dealers took charge of the Federal Government on March 4, 1933, they won a mandate for operating on the national economy through promising a "MORE ABUNDANT LIFE."

Now after 13 years, during which the Federal debt has risen from $22,000,000,000 to about $275,000,000,000, the foremost economic spokesman for the New Deal Administration, John W. Snyder, director of war mobilization and reconversion, renders an accounting.

"Despite the shortages," he observes, "the American people today ARE BETTER CLAD AND HAVE MORE TEXTILES FOR HOUSEHOLD AND OTHER NEEDS than any OTHER PEOPLE IN THE WORLD."

In other words, in light of the record of failure for 13 years, Mr. Snyder in effect asks the American people to take solace in the fact that Americans still have a higher standard of living than the Hottentots, the starving Armenians and the general international average.

Mr. Snyder's report documents the well-known fact that the visionaries of the New Deal have not delivered.

What Mr. Snyder does not point out, but what is inherent in the record, is that American primacy in productivity and in material well-being springs from the PRIVATE ENTERPRISE SYSTEM, not from the bureaucratic "economic planners."

The nation is now at the crossroads.

The people must choose between American freedom, on the one hand, and various degrees of collectivization through the use of state force, on the other.

DIM VISION

THE VISION of the lovely, co-operative world that was supposed to have resulted from the late war grows dimmer and dimmer.

While Americans are getting ready to pull in their belts another notch to send more food to the people of starving Europe, Premier Stalin of Russia has coldly turned down President Truman's plea for Soviet grain for the UNRRA.

And Marshal Tito of Yugoslav is accused in the United States Congress of selling American-donated sugar to his people for $1.25 a pound and piling up a profit of more than $150,000,000 for his once-empty treasury.

Perhaps this is the Communist method.

But it is certainly not the American method—or the American expectation.

Ah, love. But a day
And the world has changed!
Look in my eyes!
Wilt thou change, too?
Should I fear surprise?

In the good and true
With the changing year?
—ROBERT BROWNING.

A CHICAGOAN tells me he thinks he has come into possession of a Stradivarius violin. If so, he really has something. There are only about 200 of these violins in the world. A New Yorker has three, one of which is valued at $100,000. It is said that it is the flaming red varnish on the Stradivarius which makes the tone beautiful. The secret of this varnish passed on with Antonio Stradivarius who died in 1757.

NO BROOKLYNITE: I claim a fellow's home town is not necessarily where he was born but where he was brought up from early childhood. So I stated Jockey Ted Atkinson was a Brooklynite. This cost me some stogies paid to Californians. "Listen," I said to Atkinson, "why did you tell those fellows out in California you were not from Brooklyn?" He said: "How could I tell them I was from Brooklyn when I was born in Toronto, Canada?" Imagine that. He was brought up in Brooklyn, worked in Brooklyn, started as a jockey in Brooklyn and now he claims he isn't a Brooklynite. I am going to report him to the Brooklyn Forever Club. Furthermore, if you see me cheering when Atkinson rides a winner keep in mind I am cheering the horse.

Ted Atkinson

A POTATO minus butter or gravy is not fattening. So states a dietitian. A potato, says he, has only 100 calories while a doughnut has 175 and apple pie a la mode 750. Wonder how many calories there are in a butterscotch sundae? At the corner drug store, I often see a woman in our neighborhood ordering a "double" of this type of sundae. She is usually wearing slacks. I don't wish to be overcritical or narrow-minded, but I don't think women who are butterscotch sundae fans should wear slacks.

SIDELIGHTS: Am asked if there is a theater named after Ernie Pyle. There is. But not in this country. It is the Ernie Pyle Theater, Tokyo, Japan . . . Note there is a writer named Gwladys Townshend. The pronunciation of the lady's first name baffles me. I have a reader named Gwladys in Pittsburgh who promised to teach me by mail to pronounce her name but she neglected to do so.

LAWN MOWER: Soon to be available is a popular priced electric lawn mower. When first married, we lived in a house high up above the Hudson river. Was on the side of a hill. Boy, that place sure had a tough lawn to mow. I certainly could have used an electric lawn mower in those days.

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS. Q—The sergeant (of police) says he heard the song "San Francisco Bay" 40 years ago. I claim it was written less than 20 years ago. A—The sergeant sounds like a real old timer. Research indicates "San Francisco Bay" was first sung in "The Parisian Model" in 1906. This is the same show in which Anna Held introduced "I Can't Make My Eyes Behave." Q—A stogie says you can't name the well-known Brooklyn Dodgers infielder who hit only one home run in his career. A—Start wrapping up that stogie, mister. That was Ivan Olson. He hit the only home run of his career into the right field stands at the Polo Grounds. I was there that day. Was around 1924.

SPEED: One "Shake" Farnshaw is reported to have ridden a bicycle 50 miles on a British highway in 1 hour and 30 minutes. Sounds like a remarkable feat. However, maybe I'll hire a bike tomorrow and ride 50 miles on the Central Park bicycle path to check on it. I said maybe.

YOUNG MOTHERS: In the United States 46 per cent of women in their twenties are married and have at least one child. So, if you have an idea for something young mothers would want to buy, just go into action and make yourself a fortune.

PASSING BY: Josephine Culberson, bridge player from the Bronx. Originally a pinochle player, as all Bronxonians are, she became interested in bridge when acting as the secretary of Wilbur C. Whitehead. The most popular card games in the U. S. A. at the moment are, in the order named, bridge, pinochle, poker and gin rummy. Incidentally, pinochle originated in France and not in Germany, as many believe.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Copyright, 1946, King Features Syndicate

THE RECENT oratorical and editorial abuse of John L. Lewis was a silly and pathetic exhibition which defeated itself and dignified Lewis.

The fact that it accomplished nothing will be established when we discover that the Senate, again, has contrived to wiggle off the spot and do nothing about reforming the laws which enable Lewis and others to do as they do.

Westbrook Pegler

For a few days, this time, it did seem that the Senate might have to act but then, as before, Lewis gave the country a truce which actually was a truce for him at a critical moment.

The truce saved Lewis, not the nation, because if the Government had had the courage to stand pat and go through the crisis, Lewis, not the United States, would have gone down.

In a death grapple the nation will destroy any individual or groups trying to seize such power.

DURING THE excitement we were loudly reminded, again, that Lewis was beetle-browed, arrogant and a tyrant, all of which had absolutely nothing to do with the case, and none of which was news.

This political Billingsgate was in the manner of the statesmen of the Communist Party and the Left-Wing auxiliaries of the Roosevelt machine who have such a low, and accurate, opinion of the common intelligence of Americans that they habitually substitute abusive language for honest debate, and usually win.

Granted that Lewis is beetle-browed, so is Frank Murphy. Roosevelt was lantern-jawed, Henry Wallace drools and Sidney Hillman speaks a dialect that many Americans would consider laughable.

No more arrogant man ever held power in our country than Harold Ickes and the tyranny of Lewis in his union is matched by the tyranny of Dan Tobin of the Teamsters' Union, and many others.

These are superficials.

The essentials in the Lewis case were widely ignored.

THE CAUSES of the trouble are found in the Labor Relations Law and in the habits of the government in dealing with unions.

These defects were solemnly and deeply studied by a special committee of the House of Representatives, of which Howard W. Smith of Virginia was chairman in 1940.

The committee then made a thorough report revealing the most unconscionable violations of the rights of both workers and employers and the infestation of the Labor Relations Board from its very beginning by radicals.

Few of the American people ever heard of this committee, or the conditions which it reported in detail.

Some changes were made in the staff but the defects in the law have been guarded as though they were virtues.

DURING THE original debates and in the title of the Wagner Act it was stated that one purpose was to prevent union troubles and their consequent interruption of production and commerce.

Since its passage not only have strikes multiplied by four but the magnitude of the strikes, notably the recent troubles in coal, motors, steel and electrical equipment, has become a threat to the stability of the country and the personal livelihood of millions entirely unconnected with the disputes.

Whereas, formerly, strikes were contests between unions and employers over pay and conditions under the Wagner Act THEY HAVE DEVELOPED INTO POLITICAL STRUGGLES WITH UNION EXECUTIVES EXERTING THEIR POWER TO CONTROL RETAIL PRICES AND REGULATE COMMERCE.

NOWHERE IN the original debates or in the text of the law was it anticipated that this power would be used to impose on the United States the economic and political preferences of the few clever men who, inevitably, would acquire control of these new organizations and their treasuries.

But now, when experience has shown that the power has been so used, the Senate still refuses to revise the law and even to debate proposals to that effect.

I was one of the early students and critics of the Wagner Act, the Labor Relations Board and the character of unionism.

I foresaw the rise of this enormous power of a few ambitious and ruthless men over the entire people of the United States and the fortunes of the nation and sometimes was scolded, even by men of similar mind, for dinning away on one subject year after year.

Hollywood

Substituting for Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, May 23—When Paramount ignites "Blaze at Noon," the Ernest Gann book, late this year, it will be in a blaze of budget. Already ticketed as one of their biggest pictures, it is practically set to co-star four of the top actors on the lot including Stirling Hayden. "Vixen," previously announced for Madeleine Carroll's ex, has been postponed.

Joan Crawford

John Farrow, expert at directing adventurous hits, takes on the megaphoning job assigned by Henry Ginsberg. Story is a thriller about the birth of commercial aviation early in the 1930's and of four brothers who figure in blazing the air trails.

FROM TIME to time various Hollywood stars have pooled interests in the purchase of apartment houses, hotels and other properties in Los Angeles, Las Vegas and other spots. Certainly one of the biggest such deals to be swung is the purchase of the Deauville Beach Club in Santa Monica by Joan Crawford, Robert Walker, Fred MacMurray, John Wayne, Red Skelton, Frank Borzage, George Brent, Ann Dvorak and Harriet Parsons. To be known from now on as the California Cabana Club, it will feature the type of swimming (pool) club so popular in Florida—complete with cabanas, outdoor cocktail bars and other accessories to happy vacationing. It will also show a profit, you can bet, with those snappy business heads at the helm.

IF JAMES MASON won't come here, Seymour Nebenzal is willing to go to London if Mason will just say "yes" to remaking "Mayerling." Nebenzal previously made this picture in France in 1937 with Charles Boyer and Danielle Darrieux, and if he makes it again he'll settle for no one but Mason in the Boyer role. His London agent cabled today that the English star had the offer on hand and will give his answer in a couple of days. Or his wife will. Understand she makes all the movie decisions.

YVONNE DE CARLO has thought up a new one. She is asking that Universal make a movie with her in black-and-white instead of Technicolor because she swears she is losing fan interest because no one ever recognizes her in public. Stars who have been identified in black-and-white and then make Technicolors are all right, is her argument. But because no one is as colorful in real life as "Techni" makes them out—she's never recognized. Cary Grant, who gave out with the big yap in New York about being pestered by autograph hounds, please note.

OFF THE CUFF: Helmut Dantine and Warners have come to a parting of the contract. Some say he asked for it, others that it was their idea . . . Gene Autry, severely kicked on the leg by a horse, still managed to make his Pittsburgh rodeo appearance in an improvised cast . . . Hal Chester, 24-year-old Monogram producer, is engaged to Ethel Dell, sister of Gabriel Dell, the actor . . . It's cooling for June, Haver, that is, and Bob Hutton . . . Michael O'Shea is back in town, after leaving the Broadway cast of "The Red Mill." He is also out of his contract with Hunt Stromberg on a technicality—said technicality being no movie offer.

WHETHER HE wants to or not, Bing Crosby will wear a tie when he enters the Jasper Park Lodge dining room. Just before the troupe took off for the Canadian location, Charlie Brackett and Billy Wilder discovered that no gent can enter the dining room minus his neckwear. So they quickly requisitioned "wardrobe" for "15 assorted ties—preferably loud colors—becoming to Bing Crosby's type of color-blindness."

HOLLYWOOD IN SHORTS: Martha Scott and Mel Powell, Benny Goodman's piano player, may develop into something serious, now Carlton Alsop has announced his and Martha's rift; her Hollywood friends are worried about Lady Elsie Mendl—ill in New York; the Gene Kellys get home Sunday. He starts "The Pirate" with Judy Garland immediately; Virginia Lindsey, popular femme praise agent, and her husband welcomed a seven-pound boy Monday; John Roche leaves over the week-end to join Mary Balond for a three months' tour with "Meet the Wife." The show played eight months overseas; latest to join the album record- makers is Diana Lynn, who will play eight of her top piano solos; Oscar Hammerstein and Dorothy are on their way to Australia by boat for a visit with her family. He'll be meeting his in-laws for the first time.

ADELE CAVENDISH left for Ireland Tuesday but will be back in this country soon. She has a deal on to buy a home near Pebble Beach; when "The Strange Love of Martha Ivers" is released—Kirk Douglas will become a star overnight. He's back in Hollywood from New York awaiting his next assignment—and it should be good; Leo McCarney has bought Paulette Goddard's beach house; Edgar Bergen and C. McCarthy will be among those lauding Hollywood cameramen at the American Society of Cinematographers dinner June 17; with $3,000,000 invested in "The Razor's Edge," Darryl Zanuck was the unhappiest man in town when he learned that both his male stars, Ty Power and John Payne, were out kiting in their private planes. Along with the Razor's the Zanuck nerves were very much on edge; Mrs. Joe Mankiewicz (Rose Stradna) is bringing her mother here from Vienna. She has never seen her two grandsons. That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Boston After Dark

EXCLUSIVE: The Red Sox management will install arc lights at Fenway Park the instant the government bureaucrats in charge of the construction racket give out the okay . . . This does not mean necessarily that any baseball games will be scheduled for after-dark playing . . . It does mean, however, that Thomas "Tom" Yawkey, owner of the Red Sox, will be able to fulfill his contract with Ted Collins' Boston Yanks (the football team)—a contract which guaranteed he would install lights for the season of 1946.

CHARLIE DRESSEN told Johnny Costello, the Music Box panjandrum, that Earl Johnson, the Red Sox pitcher, would be the best pitcher in baseball if he retained the pitching form he showed before he enlisted in the Army in 1942 . . . (If the Red Sox happen to be favorites whenever Johnson starts, you can trace the odds in part to Dressen's expression of an opinion . . . Johnson may be promoted to a starting pitcher before Dobson runs into any more bad luck . . . Baseball fans are asking: What about Charlie Wagner, the slick right-hand thrower who has been with the Sox or their best farm clubs for seven years? . . . Charlie (who is called "Broadway" by his teammates) may get a starting assignment when it is least expected—the way Jim Bagby was called on to open the season against the Yankees several seasons ago . . . If popular Charlie Wagner leaves the Red Sox, his teammates will suffer with him, and it will be bad for morale . . . There isn't a nicer, cleaner young man in baseball than Pitcher Wagner (who has yet to heave a third of an inning this season).

THE RITZ BROTHERS and their Boston boss, Ralph Snider of the Bradford, will taste Boston's best brand of Italian food this evening at the Grotto, in Hanover st. . . . Phil Regan also will be present . . . The dinner is being staged in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Lou Stefano of Seattle . . . The Stefanos are relatives of Mrs. Sarah Noyes, the Revere beauty who was co-featured with Lupe Velez and Gladys Glad in Ziegfeld's "Hot Cha" . . . Louis Stefano left Boston 30 years ago to try his luck in the northwest . . . He did allright . . . But he hasn't seen a major league baseball game in that time . . . He and Mrs. Stefano will be in Joe Geary's No. 1 box Saturday . . . Ben Franklin Tilley, the Brighton liquor dealer, and Miss Jeanette Rustin of Allston will swap the marital vows June 17 .

YOU HEAR MANY KINDS of stories concerning the "real" ownership of Suffolk Downs, and many of them would make you doubt your own judgment as well as your faith (however slim) in human nature . . . On the best available authority, however, your reporter must take stock in the report that Tom Pappas, one of the now-famous Pappas brothers who bought Suffolk Downs, has sold his interest in the Dighton dog track . . . Tom has gone on record as having invested $45,000 in that particular Bristol County substitute for a mint . . . If that was the original investment, he has taken down no less than 1333 per cent for his money, and the resultant $600,000 has been parlayed into Suffolk Downs, according to the authenticated story . . . But who bought him out? . . . Or has there been a merger of interests? . . . The nine (9) individual checks which certified the $3,600,000 which was swapped for Suffolk's control were merged into the one check that was passed in closing the deal . . . Who signed those nine checks? . . . Or is it anybody's business—if we except the late receivers, the judge, the stockholders of the bought-out Aldred Investment Co. and (sotto voce) the race-going public.

ALTHOUGH YOUNG Jack Kennedy looks like an odds-on cinch to win the Curley congressional district succession, you could anticipate a sensational last-minute primary battle which could turn the walkaway into a contest . . . Three candidates last night presumably were listening to beguiling stories about concentrating their various followings against young Kennedy . . . Their names must appear on the ballot, regardless . . . Phil Regan's opening at the Copley-Plaza's Oval Room attracted a turn-away supper audience

NEW YORK, May 23—Diana Barrymore's new excitement is Don Piper, a Las Vegas character. He's making her divorce stay there a barrel of fun . . . All Helmut Dantine's romances on this side of the Atlantic are strictly time-killers. The one he adores is a non-pe actress in Paris. Ask the postman . . . Glamorous Margot Grahame has been ailing. Joseph McKeon, won't tie the knot when her sister, the new Mrs. William Dozier, arrives in Gotham shortly . . . Gen. JIMMY GLEASON, the film comic, has written a new comedy for Broadway — his first playwriting venture in many seasons. Jed Harris and Howard Lindsay are said to be interested in putting it on . . . Monty Woolley has been quietly starring in the Cole Porter plagiarism case, testifying in behalf of the songwriter . . . Their old friends, who were so shocked by the divorce announcement, are trying hard to effect a reconciliation in the Lou Holtz household . . . Peggy Fears and a prominent Wall Streeter are a midnight duet these Spring Swing Street evenings . . . William Grace Holloway of the steamship clan is nursing a cracked kneecap. He was tossed from his mount at his country estate. (Isn't that an elegant item?) . . . The Dinah Shore-Walter Florell-George Montgomery name-calling has the Hollywood upper crust giggling into its tea

WHAT'S THIS about Ray Middleton and his bride, the former Mrs. Graham McNamee, parting on the night of the premiere of "Anne Get Your Gun," his new hit? . . . Lew Parker and a group of Broadwayites are behind the current effort to establish the famous Variety Club . . . The latest on Maurice Chevalier is he'll open a new Paris night spot rather than go to South America . . . Ralph Morgan's lad George thinks Ramsey Ames is a dream

WASHINGTON, May 23—The little woman, who is very literate, was reading the paper the other day, spelling out the big words such as "unification" and skipping the tough ones like "bituminous." She was also mumbling to herself, which has long been recognized as a danger sign in our hovel.

The mumbling crescendoed. Came a final rumble and then eruption.

"What in heaven's name is the world coming to!" she exploded. "Is there going to be no end?"

"End of the world!" I asked. "I have no last-minute information on the subject, but when I was a boy I was told the world would end some time, although no exact date was given. But I believe that is still the generally accepted theory."

"Shut up!" said the little woman, lovingly. "You know I was not referring to the end of the world, although goodness knows I do not see how it can go on like this much longer. I was talking about all this stuff in the paper."

"I have not seen the paper yet." I said, gently. "Of course, if there was a disposition on the part of someone I will not name to share it I might manage to keep partially abreast of developments but—"

"Nuts! Look here—this is just one paper. The output of a single day. But it is enough to give you the tizzy. Let me read you some of the headlines:

"Nation Faces Another Year of Flour Cut.

"Truman Urges Chiefs to End Merger Tilt.

"Each Side Blames Other for Big Four Failure.

"Lewis Asks Welfare Fund Control.

"Crowded Maternity Hospitals, Nursing Shortage Assailed.

"U. N. May Tighten Secrecy of Council.

"Iran Troops on Border of Azerbaijan.

"British Oppose Ceding Pacific Islands to U. S.

"Agencies Assailed on Materials Misuse.

"Eight Artificial Limb Makers Found Guilty of Price Fixing.

"War Goods Secret List Is Denied."

I tell you, if the world knows what is good for it it will cut out these shenanigans. The little woman is becoming exasperated.

ABOUT TWO YEARS ago I had an interview with the Rev. Dr. Joseph F. Thorning, celebrated Catholic professor of sociology who has set up sociology courses and departments in this country and many countries of Latin America. He has been decorated by many of our good neighbor governments to the south, including Ecuador and Chile.

When I first met Fr. Thorning he was having lunch in the House restaurant with Mrs. Clare Boothe Luce. This was before she ever revealed any intention of becoming a Catholic. In the course of the conversation Mrs. Luce said she had not met many priests before.

The talk somehow got around to Capitol Hill oratory. Mrs. Luce said she thought many members of Congress defeated their own purposes by talking too long. Others got tired of listening, she said, and walked out.

"I have found the same thing true in my vocation," agreed Father Thorning. "Long-windedness is a fatal mistake. I contend that no souls are saved after the first 20 minutes!"

I got talking to Father Thorning again the other day and asked if he still set the same time limit on saving souls.

"No," he said. "Since I saw you last I have decided 20 minutes is too long. I have cut the time to 10 minutes!"

FATHER THORNING is one of the most graphic men I have ever heard when it comes to high-class denunciation. He was referring to a certain widely-known, so-called "Liberal" who goes in for vituperation and hate spreading.

"I call him the 'cloacu maxima,'" said the priest. "Translated it means 'big sewer.'"

Visiting Firemen

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., May 23 (AP)—Phillip Rupp was driving his automobile in the business district when he discovered it was on fire.

He stepped on the gas and drove to the downtown engine house, but as all the firemen were out fighting a blaze, the telephone operator summoned firemen from another station six blocks away.

The visiting firemen extinguished the blaze in Rupp's car just as the downtown station firemen returned.

Disappointment Waits Ex-Tar

CUSTER, S. D., May 23 (AP)—Daniel F. Hanley, 24, veteran who hitch-hiked from his Albany, N. Y., home to Sioux City, Ia., in a search for the girl he hopes to marry, was completing the last leg of his journey by bus today, not knowing that the Custer girl he met in wartime Sioux City is "practically engaged" to another man.

"His hopes are so high, I imagine he'll be pretty confused when I tell him," said Joyce Kent, 18, after Hanley had telephoned her from Rapid City, S. D., telling her he was on his way.

"I like Danny," she added, "but I'm not going to marry him. There's no possibility of my changing my mind."

Home Garden Forum

By FOSTER H. WEISS

Head of the Vegetable Gardening Dept., Norfolk County Agricultural School.

Q—Do new grape vines need to be trellised the first year?

A—For the first year after planting, the vines may be left on the ground or tied to a stake. The next year select the best cane, cut the rest back to about four feet and train to a post. Put up permanent trellis the third year.

Q—Last year, we planted two grape vines. They have only made about two feet of growth. Is this normal?

A—On good soil, a grape vine should make about six feet of growth the first year. Slow growth is an indication of poor soil. Cut back to two buds to allow plants to become established.

Q—Can bean seeds that have weevil damage be planted?

A—Most of these seeds will germinate and grow provided conditions are good. Do not plant in cold wet soil.

Q—Is it possible to dig up old asparagus roots, break them up and transplant them?

A—Usually not advisable as they do not come back very far. Better to start a new bed using good 1-year roots.

Q—Should all garden seeds be tested before planting?

A—If seeds are purchased from a reliable source, they will not need to be tested as this is done by the seed company.

U. S. Now Has 3 Million Cases of Alcoholism

BUFFALO, N. Y., May 23 (AP)—About 3,000,000 persons in the United States are afflicted with alcoholism, "one-quarter of them being full-fledged alcoholics," Dr. Selden D. Bacon of Yale University told the National Conference of Social Work today.

"Although this makes alcoholism one of the largest categories of sick persons there is (cancer patients total about 500,000, tuberculosis about 700,000), it includes only 6 per cent of the 50,000,000 persons in the United States who use alcohol," he asserted.

Dr. Joseph Thimann, medical director of the Washingtonian Hospital, Boston, Mass., said in a prepared address that the most modern treatment for acute intoxication as well as "the most rapid and humane procedure is a subshock dosage of insulin, which is neutralized later by dextrose."

He added that this method "eliminated all clinical signs of intoxication plus subsequent restlessness and jitters in a period of two or three hours, instead of two or three days, as when the old method of sedatives was applied."

SS Trooper Tells How He Shot Gls

DACHU, Germany, May 23 (AP)—George Fleps, SS private who fired the first shots in the Malmedy massacre of American prisoners of war, said today he raised his pistol after "we received orders from up ahead to bump off the Americans."

In a document read to the seven-man court trying 74 men and officers for wanton murder of unarmed American prisoners and Belgian civilians, Fleps asserted: "I fired one shot at one of the Americans and saw him fall."

Then, Fleps said, machineguns started spraying the Americans who had been herded into the field during early stages of the Battle of the Bulge.

Agnes DeMille Put Ballets In Musical Comedy to Stay

A most eloquent commentary on the success of Agnes de Mille, choreographer for most of the recent musical comedy successes, was expressed by a young man seeking a career in the theater.

"I studied tap dancing," he said, "until Agnes de Mille came along."

Miss de Mille has in fact revolutionized the dancing traditions of the musical shows. Ever since "Oklahoma," which introduced her ballets to the musical comedy stage, Miss de Mille has been represented in every musical show of importance. Her ballets have enlivened "One Touch of Venus," "Carousel," and "Bloomer Girl," the Shubert Theater's hit musical.

Her position established with "Oklahoma" and secured with "Bloomer Girl," Miss de Mille became mentioned as an overnight success. Nothing could be farther from the truth. Few choreographers have worked harder for recognition. In the first place, her family didn't care much for ballet. She had to heed their opinion, too, for it was expert. William de Mille was a successful writer and director, and so, in fact, is her uncle Cecil B. But against their opposition, she slogged along on the career of her choice.

She won preliminary successes before "Oklahoma." For the Ballet Theater she created "Black Ritual" and "Three Virgins And A Devil." She staged the dances for a Gertrude Lawrence London show, "Nymph Errant," and for Ed Wynn's "Hooray For What" and for "Swingin' The Dream." For the Ballet Russee she conceived "Rodeo," one of her celebrated works.

"When I think of the hard work I used to do for $20 a week!" She smiled. "I can tell you the exact date when my fortune changed. I'd worked for years and got nowhere, except for some artistic prestige. On the night of October 16, 1942, we did my ballet, 'Rodeo,' at the Met. I danced in it, felt that everything was going wrong. But at the end there were 21 curtain calls.

"Sitting in a box out front was the whole group of people from the Theater Guild that was planning 'Oklahoma!' Not that they thought of me then to do the dances. But later I went to them and talked them into it. They knew I hadn't any Broadway experience and so it took persuading.

Miss de Mille is the wife of Walter F. Prude, now a lieutenant in the Army Air Forces, but formerly concert manager for Martha Graham.

Vet, 16, 'Too Young to Work'

CLEVELAND, May 23 (AP)—War veteran Richard Schunn, 16, declared he was old enough to support his wife and eight-week-old son despite opinions of employers that he is "too young to work."

Schunn, who enlisted in the Navy at the age of 14 and served 11 months, said applications had been rejected by 35 employers in recent months because of his youth, and asserted he was having difficulty supporting his 19-year-old wife and son on $20 a week unemployment compensation.

"I've had three jobs since I got married but lost them all when the bosses discovered my age," said Schunn. "They all told me I was too young to work."

"A YANK IN LONDON," a new English film starring Anna Neagle with Rex Harrison, Dean Jagger and Robert Morley, is to be given its Boston premiere at the Exeter on Sunday.

'So Goes My Love' Proves Tamely Domestic at Keith's

By PEGGY DOYLE

Don Ameche, who invented the telephone so far as the movie-going public is concerned, and Myrna Loy, whose countless male devotees are convinced she would be lovely to come home to, are strictly in character presently on Keith Memorial screen.

In Universal's "So Goes My Love," based on "A Genius In the Family," Hiram Percy Maxim's story of his inventor-father, Hiram Stevens Maxim, these favorites of family audiences impersonate the American inventor and his wife.

En tandem, Ameche and Miss Loy, who have had more than their share of thrills in their separate cinematic make-believing, presently jog along at a Darby-and-Joan pace. The story presents Maxim in his off hours or between inventions. The Maxim Silencer, if you'll excuse our dragging it in this way, may have been used to blank out such uncouth factors as action and drama. On our honor, there isn't a snitch about it.

The tamely domestic story is, as a matter of fact, consistently in a minor key, fails to give the celebrated inventor any stature in the field in which he distinguished himself.

"So Goes My Love" is concerned solely with how the desirable but unattached Miss Loy, about to embark on a husband-hunting safari to New York, abandons her prospects for a rich marriage to become the wife of the struggling inventor.

Their life together is blissfully happy if not precisely pulse-quickening to this member of the audience, except for Junior, their first-born, who develops into an 8-year-old wonderkin of frightening preciosity and poise. He is played to the teeth by Bobby Driscoll, and had ours on edge.

Universal's Bruce Manning, an ex-New Orleans newspaper ace who has become one of Hollywood's writing-directing-producing experts, collaborated with James Clifden on the script for the Jack H. Skirball production.

Teamed with the Ameche-Loy co-starrer is the Bonita Granville-featured "Truth About Murder."

Facial Alerter Peps Up Skin

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE
Beauty and Fashion Editor

A PICKUP FACIAL is unexcelled in relaxing one mentally and physically . . . for it induces increased circulation without which there is no skin beauty. Besides, it clarifies, brightens and revitalizes the complexion . . . removing excess cuticle from the surface skin. Lovely Paramount star, Veronica Lake, poses.

WHO HASN'T HAD ONE OF those really trying days that exhausts you mentally and physically . . . so that when the clock chimes 5 you're ready to give up and call it a day! But here you are with an important dinner date that you just can't afford to miss.

You look in the mirror and a moment of panic seizes you. You can't see any beauty . . . you can't see any charm . . . you certainly can't excel as a glamorous personality this night . . . but you must! Your friends said you had your share of beauty and charm . . . but where is it? It's gone . . . hidden behind that tired hopeless expression. Why it's like a mask!

No matter what type of skin you possess . . . or how many creams and lotions you are using in your beauty treatment . . . you're not deriving the greatest benefit from the routine unless it includes a mask . . .

One of the primary causes of all skin problems is sluggish circulation. It may be due to organic disorder or lack of exercise . . . but whatever the reason . . . sluggish circulation retards the normal function of every skin part. And no skin can be healthy and normal unless every part of the skin functions correctly.

Good circulation . . . accomplished weekly by a good mask such as the one we have in mind today . . . gives four distinct benefits to the skin. Through increased circulation blackheads and enlarged pores are substantially removed and improved. Through increased circulation the skin is brightened and clarified. And, finally, increased circulation induced by a mask treatment is an ideal facial pickup . . . bringing new life and lustre to the skin.

An interesting feature of this mask is that it comes in two versions. The light suitable for average skin texture and the normal skin inclined to dryness. The dark variety is specifically designed for skins coarse in texture that have great tendency to oiliness and enlarged pores. Along with this latter type . . . there is a cucumber cream sponsored by this cosmetic house . . . a greaseless base for oily skins that need receptive powder bases for the ultimate smooth look.

For the name of these skin-toning masks and cucumber cream, phone the Beauty Dept., LIBerty 4000, every day except Sunday, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

AN EASY town cotton . . . and ideal for the warmer weather ahead . . . is this pink-striped, dark gray number with its row of crisp ruffles at the shoulder and cool short sleeves. Smartly belted in leather and throated high . . . it is an indispensable for the most sophisticated fashionwise. Good Housekeeping Magazine features this William Bass frock. —R. M.

Good Cleaning Solutions Ease Drudgery in House

By MARTHA LEE, Household Editor

THIS YEAR SPRING CLEANING has its brighter side. Here and there, it will at last be possible to replace outworn fixtures, to change the decorative scheme or even to do some remodeling. There's real joy in such renewing. There's even joy in the cleaning that still goes with it. The reason is that now many wartime scientific discoveries are being turned to the aid of the housewife. Now her annual attack on dust and dirt and insect armies is easy business, not the traditionally great to-do of other years.

The right kind of equipment and good cleaning solutions can do much to ease the drudgery of spring cleaning—as well as weekly routine cleaning. Scheduling work is another way to clean the easy way.

SOAP STRETCHER

Of course, some women think there's nothing like soap and water for many household tasks—but it isn't always possible to get your favorite soaps these days. If you are successful once in awhile, you'll be no different than many other homemakers if you try to make the soap last as long as possible.

Anticipating this need of homemakers, scientists have been busy perfecting a way to "stretch" the soap supply. Welcome as "raindrops" on your skin on a hot day, comes the report of a new detergent which, when used in your laundry tub with just a dash of soap, produces billows of sky blue suds, and makes soap perform much more efficiently. Although it cuts dirt and grease and prevents the formation of "hidden dirt" on your clothes, you can use it in laundering your sheerest blouses and lingerie.

The old-fashioned blueing rinse is unnecessary, too, with this laundry aid—for it blues while washing, thus saving you time as well as money.

"SOAPLESS" SOAPS

Among the latest scientific discoveries also are the new chemical detergents or "soapless" soaps which have been making great strides. One we have in mind is a chemical washing compound which suds easily, has an unusually quick-acting and efficient cleaning power, and works equally well in hot, cold, hard or soft water. It reduces work and saves time, chiefly because it contains an active cleaning agent which soaks out dirt, grease and grime. This requires much less scrubbing and scouring, and prevents greasy soap film clinging to dishes and clothes, which is very hard to rinse away. This gay red package pictured with bubbles tumbling all over themselves, is becoming a familiar sight on grocers' shelves and department store counters.

BLEACHING WATER

Many of the cleaning products come in bottled concentrated liquid form, too. They are used with hard or soft, hot or cold water, and the resulting solution makes dirt disappear so fast that cleaning is almost fun. We're thinking of one type of blue liquid that has been the choice of millions of homemakers for years for routine cleansing of kitchen "danger zones" such as drainboards, sinks, refrigerators, food containers, floors, garbage receptacles, etc.

This liquid is noted also for its effectiveness in bleaching white cottons and linens (brightening fast colors), and making laundry fresh and sanitary. It removes stains such as fruit, berry, beverage, blood, many ink, dye and medicine stains, oven scorch and mildew. And when weather conditions necessitate indoor drying, the use of this bleaching water eliminates dinginess and mustiness. Moreover, it reduces hard rubbing, thus conserving fabrics. It is small wonder that millions of homemakers, both new and experienced, say that they couldn't keep house without it.

OTHER CLEANING HINTS

This is the right time to check over household appliances and, if necessary, have them repaired. Efficient cleaning equipment simplifies spring cleaning and the day by day job of housekeeping the year round.

It is usually best to send rugs out for a thorough cleaning at least once a year. It is difficult to clean rugs at home and not always satisfactory. Dry cleaning is indicated, too, for draperies and slip covers when there is the slightest doubt of their washability.

Black marks from rubber heels may be removed from the floor with liquid floor wax, liquid woodwork cleaner or with ordinary cleaning fluid.

When wiping or brushing walls, remember that dirt hangs down. Brush upward to prevent streaking.

New paper dusting and polishing sheets are available in many stores. These sheets are treated with furniture polish and are so soft that they will not scratch the furniture. The advantage, of course, is their easy disposability.

Says His Ardor Has Cooled

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am 19 years old and deeply in love with an ex-sailor of 21. I have been going with him for some months.

At first he was very considerate and kept all dates, but now it is sometimes two or three weeks before I see him and then he has no explanation of where he has been in the meantime. In October, our emotions overruled us, and the affair lasted until last month, when he promised to marry me, and then stayed away for an indefinite time. His parents object to his going with me because I am of a different faith, and my parents object to my going with him because he drinks.

Should I throw away my pride and keep taking him back even though our folks object, or should I stop seeing him, even though I know I will never love or even care for anyone else?

—"FINSKO"

If you keep on taking this man back, after the way he behaves toward you, I don't think you have any pride to throw away. I cannot imagine what you see in a man who fails to keep promises, who has no consideration for your feelings, who obviously cares nothing for you, and who apparently drinks to excess.

Don't you think it's a pretty sad reflection on your own taste in men to want to hang on to one of his type, and to feel that he is the only one you can ever love? I think your ideas of what constitutes a man worth loving need considerable over-hauling. Brace up, now, and act like a sensible girl. You can certainly stop being foolish about this man if you really want to, and I'm quite sure that you will in time, anyway, in spite of yourself.

Thursday, May 23, 1946

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY—You combine the earthy qualities of Taurus with the airy traits of Gemini. A happy and fortunate combination IF you cultivate your finer characteristics and talents and curb the failings of both these strong signs. Subordinate restlessness, impatience, tendency to egotism. Cultivate your graciousness and fine understanding. You can achieve much of worth. Birthdate of Linnaeus, noted Swedish botanist; Douglas Fairbanks, Herbert Marshall, actors.

BRIDEGROOM'S NAME

If the prospective bridegroom has a Ph. D. degree, should his name on the wedding invitations and marriage announcements be given as "Doctor John Smith," "John Smith, Ph. D.," or "Mr. John Smith?" If "Doctor" is used, wouldn't there be a confusion with the medical title?

S.

The "Ph. D." after the name or the "Doctor" before the name should not be used on the wedding invitations and announcements. The bridegroom's name should be given as "Mr. John Smith."

PLANNING A SHOWER?—Guests at a shower are friends and relatives of the engaged girl. It is not customary (nor is it fair) to expect your friends to buy shower gifts for a girl they do not really know.

Dress Self Comfortably

By BETTINA BEDWELL

THERE IS one word that is the key to all the chic there is in hot weather. That is comfort. Nothing you wear during the torrid months can be smart if you do not have comfort in it. In fact, this is true pretty much the whole year around, but in summer it is acutely necessary to have comfort.

Clothes to wear in dog days, to be good, must therefore, be easy at the neckline, armholes, waistline, and elsewhere where the slightest friction or strain can be wellnigh unbearable. Shoes that are not cool and perfectly easy on your feet can give you punishment that is perfectly terrible. A hat you wear in such weather has got to be one that doesn't impose itself on your head, but that does give you some protection from the heat of the sun. Colors and fabrics that are cool and fresh-looking are part of the business, too.

Everybody Is a Gambler: Read Your Betting Odds

By AUSTEN LAKE

ON THE BLAND ASSUMPTION that everybody is a gambler, even those rigid moralists who scowl at chance-taking as a pet device of the devil, two U. S. mathematicians have brought forth bookmaker's odds on everything between your chance to hit the big Casino to the possibility of measles.

Austen Lake

One is Prof. Aaron Bakst of Columbia who admits the only games that befuddle him in attempting to compute the risks to the investor are the hazy probabilities of the horses' and hounds' legs. Track gambling stumps Prof. Bakst, who thinks that the only way to solve horse odds is by some secret form of lunar refractions or mystic multiples. But not by arithmetic.

But he finds that the most innocent gamble is the honestly conducted sweepstakes, or lottery, like that being now resumed in Dublin. And the most pernicious is the number pool in which he quotes odds at about one million to one of winning a capital prize, due to the weasel types who skim the kitty.

Marriage at 1 to 7

THE OTHER MASTER OF permutation is Berton Braley who, in a current mag article, tells your mathematical fortune for the year of 1946—such topics as your prospect of staying married if you are (1 to 113) and of being victimized by the love virus if you are not. Or what prospects you have of going to jail this year (1 to 1839 if male, 1 to 15,000 if female). Though it is improbable that the legmen who infest the downtown hallway waiting to tab your bets will not give you Mr. Braley's full odds of 166 to 1 that you won't get arrested in the next 12 months. Indeed, I am acquainted with several wrong-living characters who are a sure-fire, feed box special at 100 to 1 they WILL get snatched by the law.

Dr. Bakst figures that a $2.50 sweeps ticket in a field of 5,500,000 has a 1 to 390,000 chance of winning one of the 14 capital prizes and a 1-2500th chance of taking any of the lesser, consolation jackpots. So he says, if people must gamble, a state controlled form gives them the least brutal tossing around.

To the poker addict he points that the odds against filling a straight flush are 1 in 52,000, a full house 1 to 6000, three of a kind 1 to 50, two pairs 1 to 20, the last item being exactly twice as great a chance as Mr. Braley's estimate that you will land in the hospital this year from some ailment or injury, which he figures a 1 to 10 shot.

And Dr. Bakst adds that in his opinion there are NO dice that are not "loaded," due to minute imperfections which affect their true roll, and no roulette wheel that is perfectly balanced, nor any set of cards which, to a microscopic eye, is not "marked." Also he says that over a protracted period in any gambling game, be it horse tracks or otherwise, the "house percentage" is certain to soak up the player's capital. In short, from an economic standpoint and aside from any moral issues, he finds it does not pay to flirt with that fickle, lip-stick jade known as Miss Fortune. But he concedes, human nature being what it is, that people will continue to give their fun-money a gallop at whatever the odds, that gambling is inherently a human foible.

Murder at 1 to 10,000!

IN THE GREATER GAME OF LIFE Mr. Braley finds the gambling risks less cruel but that the "house percentage" inevitably gets us all in the end. He tells us the average citizen has a 1-to-98 chance of living to see May 23 of 1947. But he gives the bachelor less prospect of remaining single during the next 12 months (1 to 7) than Dr. Bakst gives a dice roller of hitting the lucky seven on his first spin (1 to 6). In fact, single men have 22 times less of any hope of keeping their independence than of getting hurt in a traffic accident (1 to 156) because, if they elude Cupid's flying tackle this year, the "house percentage" is 100 to 1 they won't during the next 10. Mr. Braley finds that life also has its "marked deck."

To apprehensive major league ball players like Rudy York of the Red Sox and Red Ruffing of the Yankees who have a deep antipathy toward airplane travel and prefer to ride between series by rail or auto, Mr. Braley gives a statistical razzberry. He says the mathematical chance of meeting the dark angel by air (1 to 2,700,000) is three times less than the risk of getting killed on a railroad (one to a million) and 1-562nd of the danger of being propelled to eternity in auto accidents (1 to 4800).

His computations are made only for commercial flights which carry 4,700,000 passengers an average of 570 flight miles per year, a comforting thought to one who, like this writer, made eight trans-Atlantic sky crossings in the last three years and a total of some 300 air hours elsewhere, including some in tiny, hedgehopper planes over France which flew so low that I could spit down house chimneys. In one of these I got stung very painfully by an air minded wasp. Wonder what the quoted odds are on that?

Mr. Braley makes this macabre comment: "The only crime you need worry about is murder. Not that you are likely to commit one—it's 15,000 to 1 against—but, while burglaries, robberies and thefts are usually performed by professional criminals, 75 per cent of homicides are done by people like you—'nice' people who lose their tempers, generally over some trivial matter like the price of a drink or the shine in a lady's eye" Imagine that.

One of every 10 parents will have babies this year, one in every 860 twins and one in each 490,000,000 quintuplets. So these are some of your gambles for the fiscal year, as an average unit of our population. The wheels of life never stop spinning and you are the little white ball waiting to tumble into one of the parti-colored slots. Your personal horse is at the post and Life's announcer is calling the race through his cosmic microphone: "They're off . . . John Jones breaks fast on the rail . . . There goes Tilly Murphy on the outside . . . Mike Masco is pinched in the chute . . . Stan Kozlowski casts a shoe and drops out limping" . . . And all the while Fate's tote board flickers with changing numbers—your numbers. The odds are up! What will the payoff be, gamblers? The "House" always gets you in the end!

Hose Game: Lucky Too

By HUCK FINNEGAN

CLEVELAND, May 23—Reserve your World Series tickets right now, men of Boston. The Red Sox are winning, and a winning ball club can do no wrong. That was proved conclusively in the first game of the series with the Indians which the Sox won 7-4 in 12 innings. If they can win that type of game, they should sweep the Yankees off the boards on the week-end, and soar in the stratosphere the rest of the season.

As in Detroit on Tuesday, when they spotted the Tigers four runs and beat them 6-4, so it was in the opening game against the Indians. They spotted Boudreau's battlers three runs, came surging back to win when apparently they had no right to win at all.

The Sox seemed due for a letdown after their uphill victory in Detroit. They didn't seem to have much life against the Indians after the scoreboard showed Detroit scoring three runs in the first inning against the Yankees. After all, they would lose no ground if the Yanks lost. But when the Yankees posted four in the fifth to go ahead, the Sox came to life.

Doerr led off the seventh with a single, the first of his four hits (how he needed and welcomed them). York doubled him to third. Up stepped reserve Lazor to score both with a rifle shot to center (Lindell didn't do that well subbing for Joe Di.) Now the Sox were only one run down with Lazor on first and nobody out. This was the big inning, it seemed, especially when Rocco pulled a "rock" on Russell's bunt by throwing it to second too late to catch Lazor. Now men on first and second, and nobody out. After Wagner's sacrifice, men on second and third with one out. A base hit would put the Sox ahead.

Harris was the batter. But you knew a pinch hitter was coming up by the way Hughson sped to the bull pen.

"Ferriss," the Boston press demand because Ferriss not only can hit but hits left-handed, and right-handed Mel Harder was pitching. But Cronin used Higgins, who bats right-handed and who had been resting on the Tigers' bench. Higgins rolled meekly to third, Metko popped, and there was the big inning gone kerflooey.

"Bolton," ranted the critics, recalling the '33 World Series when Cronin used the left-handed batting catcher against southpaw Carl Hubbell and Bolton grounded into a double play. "There goes the game."

They should have known a winning club can do no wrong, that players make the manager.

Came the ninth, Sox still trailing 3-2. Lazor, not to be outdone by Pellagrini, Culberson and Russell, all of whom hit homers in their '46 debut, lofted one over the right field barrier. Now the score was tied, and when Dreisewerd kept blanking the Indians, the Sox got another life in the 11th.

Doerr, making more hits in this game (4) than he did in the previous 10 games on the road, opened with a triple off the right center field wall. He stayed there as Boudreau tossed out York with the infield pulled in. The dangerous Lazor was passed to set up the double play. Here Russell, still at third because he's been hitting, knocked Harder out of the box with a shot that caromed off his right thumb for a base hit. Doerr scored and Lazor scooted to third.

Lefty Vic Johnson took over for Cleveland. He couldn't get the ball over to Wagner and the bases were loaded with one out. Here, apparently, was the spot for a right-handed pinch hitter because both Ferriss and Hughson were warmed up at the time.

"Culberson," yelled some, "McBride" others while the silent ones mused "this was the spot for Higgins."

But Cronin let Dreisewerd, a lefty, bat against Lefty Johnson with the bases loaded. If Dreisewerd could hit, okay but Dreisewerd can't hit, and was called out on strikes. So when Metko popped again for the final out, Cronin was panned unmercifully because Seerey, Meyer and Keltner, all right-handed hitters, were coming up, and why use Dreisewerd against them with Ferriss and Hughson ready?

Seerey singled, advanced to second when Doerr threw out Meyer, and up strode Keltner who had doubled off Dreisewerd his previous time at bat and who hit hard against the Yankees. So now Ferriss stepped in, and Keltner drove home the tying run with a line drive over Pesky's head. Ferriss got out of the inning but now the Sox had to start all over again. It must have been quite discouraging to the players.

If so, they didn't seem aware of it. Pesky opened the 12th with a single, and Williams, hitless in five previous trips, belted one of Center's pitches over the garden wall, a country mile. It was one of the longest home runs ever seen in Cleveland. Doerr doubled and later Lazor singled him home for the Sox' third run of the inning and Lazor's fourth RBI of the day.

This surely was enough to win. But when Boudreau singled and Rocco walked in Cleveland's half of the 12th with nobody out, Cronin yanked Ferriss for Hughson when pinch hitter Fleming strode to the plate.

Now Hughson pitched home run balls to Henrich, Jones (Chicago), Greenberg, Outlaw and Wakefield in his last three outings, and the press moaned: "Oy, if Fleming (lefty batter) hits one over the wall, the game is tied again."

Thereupon Hughson retired the side in order, the Sox had won their seventh game against four losses on the road, they had refused to let the Yanks gain on them, and Cronin, all smiles, said "great game to win, wasn't it?"

Specs Aim High

Speculators set a new high for box seats for the Red Sox-Yanks double-header at Fenway Park on Sunday when $50 a pair was asked by a scalper plying his trade in Newspaper Row.

It is expected that $1.80 reserved grandstand seats will be selling for $10 a pair by speculators by Saturday. Business men in Boston from out-of-town appear willing to pay almost anything to see Sunday's twin bill.

Red Sox Try Bob Klinger In Windup at Cleveland

CLEVELAND, May 23 — Bob Klinger, obtained from the Pirates, was to pitch the final game vs. Cleveland today. Red Embree was Boudreau's choice . . . such is the spirit of the Sox that they joked in the clubhouse: "We had it all the way. We were just toying with them" . . . "Never hit a ball better in my life," said Williams of his home run . . . "It's about time," said Doerr as he snapped out of his slump with two triples, a double and single. A good time, too, with the Yankees coming up.

Ferriss got credit for the win, his sixth against no defeats . . . Four of Harris' five strikeouts were called. He wasn't bad at all . . . Russell, still making good plays afield and still getting those important hits, still wonders why the Sox bought Higgins. "Where's he going to play?" he asks naively. Cronin had announced Higgins would play third base against Cleveland. Russell's hitting forced him to change his mind.

Lazor, be it recalled, did some timely and forceful batting for the Sox last season. He's hit .300 in every league he's played in. If he moved around the outfield more gracefully, he'd be a good bet to oust the speedy Metkovich . . . Dreisewerd pitched great ball after relieving Harris, and what's become of relief men Ryba and Brown? . . . Ferriss is due to open against the Yanks in Boston Saturday with Hughson and Harris going in Sunday's double-header . . . Culberson would have started in place of Lazor had not his injured finger interfered with his throwing . . . It was Williams' eighth homer . . . Andres, H. Wagner, Pytlak and Bagby are the only Sox not flying home tonight.

FINNEGAN.

Sox Fly Home

HUCK FINNEGAN, Boston American baseball writer traveling with the Red Sox, will accompany them home by plane tonight after the Cleveland series finale. The plane will take off about 7 o'clock and arrive in Boston 2½ hours later.

Players Pytlak, H. Wagner, Russell, Andres, Bagby and Campbell will pass up the plane ride and go via rail.

Mexican Kills OK For Cards to Visit

NEW YORK, May 23 (INS)—Three members of the St. Louis Cardinals today obtained permits to enter Mexico, presumably to "jump" organized baseball, but the permits later were cancelled. Players involved were Lou Klein, Max Lanier, star left-hander, and Fred Martin, right-hand pitcher.

The Mexican government tourist bureau said the permits were cancelled on "orders from Dr. Jose Larea, head of the department."

Dr. Larea wasn't immediately available for comment and the office was unable to explain the cause of his action.

The tourist office declared that the trio of Cardinals appeared at the bureau earlier today, accompanied by Bernardo Pasquel, vice-president and talent scout for the league, and obtained permits to cross the border into Mexico.

Later, however, Dr. Larea phoned in a cancellation of the documents without, it was said, offering an explanation.

Lanier, war veteran, returned to baseball this year apparently in the finest fettle of his career, having won six games for the Cardinals so far without a defeat.

Martin, who won 23 games for Houston in 1941 and immediately was drafted into the Army, has appeared infrequently in 1946—his first major league season—but has shown to advantage on several occasions.

Klein was the regular second baseman of the championship Cardinals in 1942 and 1943, but entered the service after that. His replacement, Emil Verban, was recently traded to the Phillies.

It was learned later than the three players failed to appear at the Polo Grounds for today's game with the Giants. It was also reported that another playe rhad joined the others in the supposed Mexican venture.

Manager Eddie Dyer wasn't on the Cardinal bench when reporters went there to interview him. They were told that Dyer had gone to the dressing room, but newsmen failed to find him there.

The reported defection among the Cardinal personnel came quickly upon the heels of a Supreme Court decision which granted a temporary restraining order forbidding Bernardo Pasquel and the Mexican League from dickering with players under contract

Mexicans Debate Player Limit

MEXICO CITY, May 23 (AP)—The Mexican League ruled that Latin American who have not played professional baseball in the United States or Cuba will not be considered "foreigners," and thus will not figure in foreign player limits of nine per club.

League Secretary Octavio Rueda Magro said the step was taken as the result of "the situation that has developed with respect to the so-called major leagues of the United States."

Even under the new ruling, however, several clubs are over the foreign limits, and shifts may have to be made.

Kelly Petillo Sues Race Track

INDIANAPOLIS, May 23 (AP)—Kelly Petillo, winner of the 500-mile automobile race here in 1935, charges the Indianapolis Motor Speedway Corp. barred him from this year's race in a $50,000 damage suit filed against the corporation here today.

The suit, filed in Marion County Circuit Court, said the Speedway "i sattempting to control the cutcome of the 1946 race. Petillo maintained he "is feared by many drivers" because of his "fearless, daring competencey" on the track and that his application to enter next Thursday's race was refused.

The suit charges the speedway with circulating petitions among the drivers and the public to the effect that he "is incapable of driving a race car."

571,661 See Braves in First 29 Games

By FRED HOEY

Night baseball will stay at Braves Field. Another great crowd demonstrated that last night when the Braves turned back the Cincinnati Reds, 5 to 1, under lights before 34,024 cash fans. When such a crowd comes to see the fifth-place Reds battle the locals, it is ample proof that New England fans are baseball hungry and find night baseball one way to appease this craving.

The Braves, as they travel to New York today where they open a four-game series with the Giants, are happy in the thought that they not only have maintained their hold on fourth position in the standing but have attracted an amazing number of cash customers.

The Braves have played 29 games to date. During that time they have played to 571,661 fans, the greatest attendance run in Boston National League history. They have played to 252,189 at home.

This road trip which opens tomorrow, imposes a difficult job on the Braves pitching staff, 22 games in 18 days. But Billy Southworth and his men believe they can weather it.

When the Braves knocked off the Reds, they showed smart pitching and timely hitting. They had won only one of their four night home games up to last night, but big Johnny Sain, with that swell side arm curve of his working to perfection, had the Reds completely tied up.

It was Johnny's wild pitch that gave the Reds their only run.

But as great as were the Braves, there were other features that made a distinct hit with the big crowd. The crack Nashua High band of 65 pieces amazed the fans by their great music. The boys played like professionals. Then, before, during and after the game, fireworks were staged. Soon after the game the beautiful set pieces were set ablaze in a riot of color and noise.

There was a parade of four Cincinnati pitchers: Clyde Shoun, Johnny Vandermeer, Lambert and Harry Gumbert. They all looked alike to the Braves.

Rate Robinson, LaMotta Over Champ Tony Zale

By JACK CONWAY

IF I WERE asked to rate the world's leading middleweights I would give Ray (Sugar) Robinson No. 1 position, place Jake LaMotta second, Tony Zale, the champion, third, and Rocky Graziano, fourth. Robinson can make the welterweight limit of 147 pounds, but he usually fights above that notch. If Ray were given the opportunity to do so, he could probably win the welterweight and middleweight championships.

Tony Zale

This writer does not believe Robinson would experience any difficulty winning from Rocky Graziano, New York middleweight who will get a crack at Tony Zale's title in July. Rocky is a terrific puncher and very aggressive, but he would find it very difficult landing a solid blow on the fast, elusive Robinson.

LaMotta has proved repeatedly he is Robinson's most dangerous rival. He is the only boxer who has been able to carry the fight to "Sugar" down to the final gong. LaMotta always forces the issue while in the ring while he hits with either hand. Robinson cannot let up for a single second when opposed by this destructive piece of fistic machinery.

I place Robinson and LaMotta ahead of Tony Zale as the latter has not done much boxing in recent years on account of the fact he was in the Navy. Since receiving his discharge, Tony has won two or three warm-up matches.

It is fortunate for Zale to have Rocky Graziano around. The latter is a much better attraction in New York than Robinson or LaMotta who are his superiors as fighters. It is likely that Zale and Graziano will draw $250,000 which will give the champion $100,000 for his services.

Zale, on account of his experience and ability to take a punch, has a chance to win from Graziano despite his inactivity.

LaMotta Against Reddick

LaMOTTA WILL be back at the Garden on Friday night battling Joe Reddick of Paterson, N. J., in a 10-round bout at a Goodwin A. C. show. Reddick is a sturdy, two-handed club fighter, and in a recent appearance here he walloped Johnny Walker of Philadelphia.

While LaMotta is expected to win from Reddick, the latter should give Jake a hard battle.

In his last Boston ring appearance, LaMotta scored a kayo over the colorful Popeye Woods. Jake then came here to see his brother, Joey, in his two battles with Joe Blackwood. When the latter defeated Joey in their second tussle, after holding him even in the first contest, he asserted he was eager to get a crack at Brother Jake. The latter has never been known to dodge any opponent and he will probably consent to take on Blackwood if the Goodwin Club wishes the match.

Al Smith, Roxbury lightweight, will tangle with Jimmy McLarnin of New Bedford in the eight-round semi-final at the Goodwin Club's show. In a second eight, Johnny Juliano of Hartford will meet Babe Kelley of New Haven. Tony Petro of Boston and Bernie Cummings of this city will box six rounds, while the opening four-rounder will bring together Frankie Waters of the North End and Tony Garney of New Bedford.

Planes and Athletes

FRANK SEXTON, world's heavyweight wrestling champion who meets Olaf Olsen in a title bout at the Arena tonight, has received much publicity over the fact he flew to Boston from his training camp in New York and that he intends to use planes in his hops around the country . . . The press agent failed to state that Paul Bowser, promoter of tonight's bout, flew in planes at state fairs through the Middle West 30 years ago, and that when Danno O'Mahoney first came to Boston he made the trip from New York by plane through a snowstorm accompanied by Bowser and the late Jack McGrath of Worcester . . . O'Mahoney made all of the long hops by planes . . . One night he wrestled in Chicago, while on the following evening he appeared in a ring at Spokane, Washington.

In order to make an appearance at a Christmas Basket wrestling show at the Arena, Gus Sonnenberg bundled himself among mail bags in a postal plane and flew from Portland, Oregon, to Chicago where he was able to get a regular passenger plane to Boston.

Sexton's feat of flying from New York to Boston is today as common as it was to make a five-cent trip around the old belt line run of the Boston Elevated when this writer as a boy lived in Roxbury . . . The press agent could have gained more attention for Sexton if he had stated he is the best wrestler to show for Bowser since Jim Browning, Henri DeGlane, Nick Lutze, Ed Don George and Joe Malcewicz were at the peak of their careers . . . Sexton is every inch an athlete and does not need any ballyhoo about riding in planes to gain attention.

Austen Lake, Boston American columnist, has made so many ocean hops since the start of World War II that he requires a statistician to keep count of them . . . In rural areas like the Berkshires private planes are almost as common as kitty cars are in the city . . .

Baker Donates Cup For Canal Anglers

By "TAP" GOODENOUGH

Many angling enthusiasts of the Canal Sportsman's Club, which has its headquarters at Buzzards Bay and boasts a membership of 695, have been plying their rods in the Canal recently, taking a few catches from the spasmodic runs of striped bass occurring at present. Previous to the arrival of this specie, some of the men were boating large flounders, tautog, and cod in the bays, according to Sec. Harry Walker, of Pocasset.

Champ striper fisherman of the club is J. Arthur Baker, who won the member's award—a silver loving cup—last season for landing the biggest fish. He has donated another cup as an incentive for the anglers.

Eight years old, this organization is active in the vital work of conservation, anxious to protect their natural resources from forest fires of the kind that devastated the Cape this spring. They believe that most of the deer in the area escaped the flames, but a great loss was inflicted on rabbits and partridge—not to mention untold amounts of valuable timber.

CLUB CHATTER: Through the efforts of Walter Lainik, secretary of the Danvers Fish and Game Club, patients of the Essex Sanatorium, Middleton, have formed a unique Sportsman's Club, and will conduct a "Sports Night" program, starting at 7:45 this evening. Included in the entertainment will be a tribal war dance performed by an Indian princess, exhibitions of captured German firearms, fishing equipment, handiwork, boat models, and the showing of two angling films.

The purpose of the affair is to raise funds to aid the patients in rehabilitating themselves, with part of the proceeds going for the purchase of fly tying materials, an art which several of the boys plan to follow as a trade . . . The group has access to the trout pool of the Danvers Fish and Game Club.

The Needham Sportsman's Club is sponsoring a Father and Son get-together this evening, with special prizes for the "young fry"—a casting rod and baseball equipment

Proper Gripping First in Golf

By BYRON NELSON

How important is the grip in golf?

Obviously, one of the most important phases of anybody's golf game is the grip. The two most common grips used are the overlapping grip, which I have always favored, and the interlocking grip, favored by Gene Sarazen and Henry Picard.

The other day I outlined how Henry Picard, now the professional at the Canterbury Golf Club, Cleveland, Ohio, had successfully changed over late in his golfing career from the overlapping grip, which he had used from the time he was caddy and first started playing golf, to the interlocking grip, but I didn't go into any detail.

"It was no simple matter to change my grip," said Henry when asked to discuss it. "Nothing can throw a golf swing out of kilter quicker, as you know, but I had no choice in the matter because of the trouble I had with my wrist.

"By using the interlocking grip I can uncock my wrists with more snap at the impact. It gave me ten yards more off the tee, at least.

"It is my idea that the grip you use, like the rest of your golf game, should be adapted to you and your own physical build and limitations. I think that the overlapping grip is the best for young golfers because it compels the hands to work in unison, but the interlocking grip added to my hand action and solved my problem.

"My game improved a stroke a round or more after I switched to the interlocking method . . . left thumb encircling the shaft and right little finger interlocking with the left forefinger."

Gene Sarazen has always used the interlocking grip, but Gene has always explained that he acquired the grip as a caddy and became so accustomed to it that he didn't dare change to the overlapping grip. Henry, on the other hand, is quite enthusiastic about the interlocking grip because it solved a problem for him at a time when his golf future looked bleak, from a competitive angle, at least.

Personally, as I've said before, I favor the overlapping grip. It gives maximum results because both hands work as one, whereas in the interlocking grip one hand is sort of working in opposition to the other.

When instructing pupils on the grip I have always emphasized the firmness of the grip. Particularly, do I emphasize the firmness of the left hand.

Give considerable time and thought to your grip. The grip is the first step in your game of golf.

Cards' Lefty Pair May Get 20 Each

Barring unforeseen developments, the St. Louis Cardinals, knee-deep in southpaw strength on the mound, may turn up with a pair of 20-game winners this year, each pitching from the left side. Only once since the turn of the century has a National League club boasted two lefthanded 20-game winners in one season according to the Associated Press.

In Max Lanier (6-0) and Howie Pollet (4-2), the Cards have two of the most accomplished portsiders in the league. Having already won more than half the team's total between them, the pair stand a good chance to emulate lefties Carl Hubbell and Cliff Melton, each of whom gained 20 or more triumphs for the New York Giants in 1937.

In fact, only one Cardinal lefthander has ever been able to win as many as 20 games in one season. He was Wee Willie Sherdel who notched 21 wins in 1928. Slim Sallee missed the charmed figure by one in 1913 and 18 years later Wild Bill Hallahan did likewise.

On only four occasions have the Redbirds been able to produce a pair of 20-game winners in any single season, be they left or righthanded. The fabulous Kid Nichols and Jack Taylor accomplished the feat back in 1904 and it was not until 1927 when Jess Haines and Grover (Pete) Alexander combined to win 45 games between them that two Cards reached that total. Sherdel joined Haines in 1928 and Mort Cooper collaborated with Johnny Beazley in 1942.

Beazley, a right-hander, still is counted on heavily by Manager Eddie Dyer, but currently rates behind Lanier, Pollet and Harry Brecheen, another southpaw slinger. In addition, lefthander Al Brazle, recently discharged from the Army, is itching for a chance to regain his former starting berth.

Pollet's fourth victory last night, a 7-1 win over his pet "cousins," the Giants, came at a most opportune time, since it enabled the Cards to regain their first place National League deadlock with the Dodgers. The Brooks had moved a half-game ahead by shading the Chicago Cubs 2-1 in 13 innings earlier in the day.

The lean lefthander from New Orleans, who had beaten the Giants eight times in nine previous starts before he went off to war in 1943, narrowly missed getting his second straight shutout before a paid attendance of 45,755 at the Polo Grounds. The lone Giants' run came in the seventh inning on a home run by Big Jawn Mize, his eighth of the campaign. A three-run homer by Enos Slaughter followed immediately by another round tripper by Whitey Kurowski, sewed up Pollet's victory in the first frame.

Dixie Walker, Brooklyn's idol, gave his worshippers plenty to cheer about when he belted a long double off the right field wall to score Dick Whitman in the 13th inning and give the Dodgers a 2-1 edge over the Cubs. The blow broke up a tight pitching duel between Chicago's Johnny Schmitz and Brooklyn's Joe Hatten and Kirby Higbe. Hatten worked the first 12 innings and gave up only four hits.

The Yankees overcame a 3-0 deficit as a result of Hank Greenberg's first inning home run, to defeat the Detroit Tigers 5-3 and hand Fred Hutchinson his first loss. Until the Yanks tallied four runs on him in the fifth, Hutchinson had run up 18 consecutive shutout innings. A triple play, with everybody in the Yankee infield taking part, helped the New Yorkers out of a big hole in the eighth.

Cubs, Dodgers In Free-for-All

BROOKLYN, May 23 (AP)—The fist fighting which marked yesterday's game between the Dodgers and Chicago Cubs flared again during pregame batting practice today when Dixie Walker and Len Merullo tangled in a scrap that involved other players of both teams and brought police into action to check the disorder.

Peace was restored after about 10 minutes.

The trouble started when Peewee Reese, Dodger shortstop, was taking his swings during the preliminary batting drill at 1:15 p. m. Merullo, who fought with Eddie Stanky of the Dodgers yesterday, was standing near the plate exchanging banter with Reese. Walker and Cookie Lavagetto of the Dodgers also were near by.

According to bystanders, an argument between Reese and Merullo developed. When the Chicago shortstop made a disparaging remark, Walker jumped in and they wrestled each other to the ground.

The mixup brought other players of the two teams into action. Phil Cavarretta of the Cubs, going to the defense of Merullo, landed several blows about Walker's body before a squad of police, brought from outside the park, arrived.

About 5000 spectators were in the stands at the time and many had to be restrained from jumping on to the playing field.

Police separated the players, and Dodger members were ordered to their dressing room. The Cubs remained on the playing field and three policemen were posted on their bench.

George Barr, Jocko Conlan and Dusty Boggess, the umpires assigned to officiate in the series, had not arrived at the park when the trouble began.

Conlan was the first of the three umpires to show. Upon learning of the disorder he set out to discover its cause. Conlan was asked if the players involved in the flareup would be permitted to play in the contest.

He said that since the trouble happened before the game he would allow them to appear in the contest. When Walker went into the Dodgers' clubhouse to check up on his physical condition he discovered he had had a tooth knocked out and another one had been chipped.

While the players were engaged in their free-for-all spectators saw Reese land a few body blows on Cavarretta but they failed to leave a mark on the husky Cub first baseman.

When order was restored the Cubs moved into their batting drill. Merullo and Cavarretta were booed by the spectators when they took their turns at bat.
